U. S. Intervention Asked to Halt Strike Violence

MAYOR ASSERTS REIGN OF TERROR RULES JOHNSTOWN

Brooding Quiet Hangs Over City as 'Vigilante Army,' 400 Strong, State Police Patrol Streets; Kidnap Charges Hurdled.

PLAN TO REOPEN OHIO MILL FAILS

Sheet and Tube Declines To Assent to Plea of 10,000 Non-Strikers Until Protection Assured.

By the Associated Press.
Strike - embroiled Johnstown's mayor, Daniel J. Shields, appealed to President Roosevelt last night for direct intervention to "remove the murderous element that now infests the city."

The White House acknowledged receipt of Mayor Shields' telegram last night but the President withheld comment.

Still another appeal for federal intervention - renewing pressure on the White House to take active steps in the seven-state labor strife that has put more than 100,000 workers idle - came from Phillip Murray, chairman of the Steel Workers' Organizing Committee.

Murray arranged to meet Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins today to discuss the possibility of an election on employee representation, supervised by the National Labor Relations Board.

Knife Blade Flashes

These opposing appeals to federal power were made while a knife blade flashed to break temporary calm at the violence-ridden Cambria Mills in Johnstown. Burgess Michael J. Sewak, of Franklin, said an unidentified man received a possibly fatal gash near the heart when a negro worker attempted to penetrate picket lines. Sewak said he would arrest the negro as the knife wielder.

A back-to-work movement by 10,000 non-strikers in Youngstown, Ohio, collapsed for the time being, at least, when Frank Purnell, president of Youngstown Sheet and Tube, declined to reopen the mills until he receives assurance of protection from civil authorities.

At Bay City, Mich., leaders of a picket line, 1,000-strong, attempting to enforce a strike at the Bay Manufacturing Company, warned that they would send pickets in.

Jeanette MacDonald, Gene Raymond Wed

HOLLYWOOD, June 16.—(P)—While 5,000 persons crowded outside the Wilshire Methodist Episcopal church, Jeanette MacDonald, singing star of the films, and yellow-haired Gene Raymond were married tonight by the Rev. Whillie Martin.

One thousand invitations had been issued for the lavish ceremony and the church was jammed to its capacity.

The couple plans to depart June 28 for a Hawaiian honeymoon.

Traffic was re-routed on Wilshire boulevard, the city's busiest thoroughfare, as officers endeavored to handle the crowd of curious persons massed around the fashionable church.

Miss MacDonald, 30, and Raymond, 29, have been sweethearts for more than a year. Neither has been married before.

Film Fame Beckons—She Wins Screen Test

Miss Sarah Dunford, of Helena, Ga., has taken the first step up the ladder that leads to movie stardom. She's the first to receive the coveted promise of a screen test in The Constitution's movie talent hunt. The door to film fame is open to Miss Dunford, the rest is up to her.

Screen Tests Here Provide Chance for Genuine Talent

Constitution's Talent Hunt Opens Door to Gifted Young Aspirants.

Miss Sarah Dunford, Helena, Ga.
Dear Miss Dunford:
You believe you could play the type of role in which Ginger Rogers is starred. You love to dance and sing more than to live. In fact, dancing and singing is life itself to you.

You have studied dancing and singing under several well known teachers. You have sung on the radio for two years. You play the violin, piano and guitar. You have beauty, youth, poise and vivacity.

Don't go to New York at this time. Here in Atlanta there is far greater opportunity.

Chance Is Yours.
The Constitution is offering you the first screen and voice tests and your film will be seen by thousands here before it is sent to Hollywood for a preview before the executives of the major film studios.

Who knows but that you may be the winner of the glorious trip, all expenses paid, to the movie capital. Of course, it is up to the Atlanta audiences who see you on the screen as to whether you would receive the trip, but don't you think this opportunity is far greater than any you might find in New York?

You will be asked to go through rehearsals and your stay here may require several weeks. However, it is definite that you will receive the movie tests. Notification.

Northeast Georgia Soapbox Derby To Be Run at Gainesville This Year

Boys in Hall and adjacent counties were happy yesterday—the Soap Box Derby committee granted a request that a preliminary derby be held in Gainesville this year as well as in Atlanta, Athens and Griffin.

With the announcement, there was a scurry to obtain application blanks necessary for entry and hopeful, would-be contestants began drawing plans for a super Soap Box racer.

The winner of the Gainesville derby will compete July 24 in Atlanta at Soap Box Derby Downs on North Side drive with the Atlanta, Athens and Griffin winners for the privilege of representing north Georgia in the National Soap Box Derby at Akron, Ohio, August 15.

DIFFERENTIAL RATE PETITION MAPPED AT NEW ORLEANS

Governors Rivers, Leche and White Will Name Legal Aides To Draft Details for Submission to Commerce Commission.

NINE EXECUTIVES TO OKAY STRATEGY

Georgia Governor Named Chairman of Group Given Duty of Waging Battle To Cure Discrimination.

NEW ORLEANS, June 16.—(P) As part of an agreement among the executives of nine southeastern states, the governors of Georgia, Mississippi and Louisiana today decided to prepare a petition to the Interstate Commerce Commission for the abolition of differential freight rates.

At the suggestion of Governor Rivers, of Georgia, Governor Richard W. Leche, of Louisiana, and Governor Hugh White, of Mississippi, met with him here for discussion of the problem which they described as a "barrier to the industrial development of the south."

Counsel To Be Named.
The executives, according to their decision, will appoint members of the staffs of their attorneys general for general consultation and final appointment of a freight rate expert.

The final plan of the petition as drawn up by the assistant attorney general and the expert, Governor Rivers said, will be approved by the governors of Alabama, Florida, Tennessee, Kentucky, North Carolina and South Carolina.

"At a meeting of the nine governors or their representatives last May in Atlanta," Governor Rivers said, "we agreed to divide the nine into committees of three to draw up petitions involving the abolition of commodity, class and differential rates."

Governor Bibb Graves, of Alabama, will be chairman of the committee.

GEORGIA DIVIDENDS TOP FOUR MILLION

State Companies Swell Prosperity Tide With Payments Due July 1.

Further evidence of a definite return of prosperity was noted yesterday in a compilation of dividends to be distributed by Georgia companies July 1, when a total of $4,806,803.12 will flow into the pockets of stockholders.

The total compares with $3,995,950 paid stockholders last April 1. The compilation was made by W. F. Broadwell, of Courts & Company. The total represents quarterly and semi-annual dividends.

In the total is included a quarterly dividend of 50 cents on 3,991,900 shares of Coca-Cola common stock, for a total of $1,995,950, and a semi-annual dividend of $1.50 on 600,000 shares of Coca-Cola "A" stock, totalling $900,000.

Coca-Cola Status.
Although the Coca-Cola company is now a Delaware corporation, and disbursements will be made from that state, the dividends are included since many of the stockholders receiving the dividends live in this state, and because the company is basically an Atlanta industry.

The total amount of dividends paid April 1 included the Coca-Cola dividends.

Broader pointed out in his compilation that directors of the Fulton National Bank, Southeastern Express Company, Interstate Bond Company, Haverly Furniture Company and the Atlanta Title & Trust Company are expected to meet later this month to consider dividend payments, which may swell the total still further.

The dividend payers include the Georgia Power Company, which distributes a quarterly dividend of $1.50 on its $5 preferred stock, and $1.25 on its $3 preferred stock.

Citizens Flee as Insurgent Airplanes Bomb Bilbao

As insurgent bombers roar over Bilbao, Spain, in one of the recurring air attacks, citizens scurry for the shelter of underground caves. The insurgents have continued bombing from the air as the land forces blast away at the city's last ring of defense.

RAMSPECK HINTED FOR CONNERY POST

Georgian To Get Committee Chairmanship If Woman Drops Claim.

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.
WASHINGTON, June 16.—The possibility of Representative Robert Ramspeck, of Atlanta, succeeding to the chairmanship of the important house labor committee was seen today as a result of the death here yesterday of Representative William P. Connery, Democrat, of Massachusetts.

While the Georgia congressman is second in line for the post left vacant by the Massachusetts member, there is a strong probability that Representative Mary T. Norton, Democrat, of New Jersey, who has first call on the position, may relinquish her claim and allow the chairmanship to go to him.

The committee is now engaged in hearings on one of the most far-reaching pieces of legislation put forward by the administration this session—the Black-Connery wage-hour bill, which has been the subject of intense controversy.

Hold Chairmanships.

Both Representative Ramspeck and Representative Norton already hold committee chairmanships, and neither of them was prepared to say today what their attitude will be with respect to the new post. Mrs. Norton, now serving as head of the house District of Columbia committee, said she was too shocked over Mr. Connery's death to decide now whether to accept the labor chairmanship. Mr. Ramspeck, present chairman of the civil service committee, said he naturally would

Two Slightly Injured In Forced Landing

Missing Candler airport in the darkness and rain of a thunderstorm which broke over the city at about 8:30 o'clock last night, a Dallas, Texas, private pilot made a forced landing in a plowed field at the city prison dairy farm, off the new Macon highway, near Constitution.

The pilot, Warren B. Leavitt, 36, Dallas, sales engineer, and his passenger, Miss Julia Barnett, 26, also of Dallas, suffered slight injuries. The plane's undercarriage was damaged. The plane, a two-seater cabin monoplane, did not nose over.

Leavitt and Miss Barnett were treated at Grady hospital. They then went to a hotel. Miss Barnett said she would return to Dallas. Leavitt said he would fly to New York, his destination. The forced landing was witnessed by Miss Mildred Mosley, 19, living near the dairy farm, who summoned help. Leavitt said he left Dallas at about 8 o'clock yesterday morning, stopping at Shreveport and Meridian, Miss.

Amelia Hops For Calcutta From Karachi

Noted Aviatrix Relates Experience Riding Camel in Desert.

KARACHI, India, June 17.—(P)—Amelia Earhart, continuing her journey around the world, took off from here at 7:25 a. m. local time, today (8:55 p. m. Atlanta time, Wednesday) for Calcutta.

KARACHI, India, June 16.—Karachi lies in desert country and the desert stretches for miles along the route we plan to fly tomorrow. It is a 1,400-mile hop to Calcutta and I do not intend to stop unless it is necessary, though I received a cordial invitation from the Maharajah of Jodhpur, to land at his private airport 300-odd miles from here. I should have liked to do so, of course, and I

POLITICAL PURGE PUSHED IN RUSSIA

MOSCOW, June 16.—(P)—The suicide of the president of the White Russian Soviet republic, hundreds of arrests and the removal of hundreds of thousands from Communist party rolls were announced by the government today as the greatest political purge in Soviet Russia's history went forward.

The government said Alexander G. Cherviakoff, 45-year-old head of the westernmost of the Soviet Union's 11 republics, killed himself for family reasons. But his death followed closely his denunciation in Communist party meeting.

GRAVE IS SOUGHT IN KIDNAPING CASE

Odor Near Home Brings Digging Order; Contact With Abductors Hinted.

STONY BROOK, N. Y., June 16.—(P)—Police Lieutenant Wilson tonight said odors he detected caused authorities to seek a hidden grave within 2,000 feet of the home of the missing Mrs. Alice Parsons.

Wilson, a member of the Brookhaven police force, said he "could not be mistaken." The search was halted tonight by darkness, but men armed with shovels and other equipment were ordered to begin a new hunt of the brush-covered area north of the Parsons home at daybreak.

Lieutenant Wilson's announcement followed discovery that local authorities had been engaged in digging at nightfall. Assistant District Attorney Henry, who earlier denied that a possible grave was sought in the hunt for Mrs. Parsons, admitted that more than 10 "bare spots" had been examined. The odor, said Wilson, was "unmistakably that of a body," although he added that it might originate from the body of some animal.

Fear Clue Destruction.
He said plans to rig floodlights and continue the search tonight were abandoned because of fears that searchers might, in the darkness, obliterate some clue to the missing woman's whereabouts.

Federal Bureau of Investigation agents did not join in the digging tonight, nor did they comment on Lieutenant Wilson's assertion.

Communication Hinted.
Unofficial reports that Parsons was communicating with persons he believed were the kidnapers of his wife flew thick tonight after appearance of an advertisement in the New York American which read:

"All is forgiven, Danny—come home."

MANY ARE BURIED AS HUGE SHELLS DESTROY HOUSES

Fierce Counter - Attack Launched by Basque Guns and Planes Beaten Back, Insurgent Radio Station Announces.

2 SPANISH SHIPS REPORTED SUNK

Four of General Franco's Bombing Raiders Shot Down as They Swoop Over Besieged City.

HENDAYE, Franco - Spanish Frontier, June 16.—(P)—A bitter aerial and artillery duel terrorized Bilbao today, many were buried beneath shell-wrecked homes and thousands of women and children fled the city in panic.

Dispatches reaching the border from Bilbao said whole houses were destroyed by 12-inch shells from insurgent artillery. It was believed they were fired from German-made guns. It was almost impossible to walk through the streets without hearing the screams of wounded inhabitants buried beneath the wreckage, said refugees reaching here.

Insurgent warplanes droned over the city to drop bombs and warning leaflets to the frightened inhabitants. They said only "Death awaits you. (Signed) 'Franco.'"

Fierce Counter-Attack.
Basque artillery and planes launched a fierce counter-attack but this was beaten back, the insurgent radio station at Durango reported. The government station at Santander announced that four of Generalissimo Francisco Franco's planes were shot down while they swooped over the besieged city. Today's onslaught was the first by Bilbao warplanes since the insurgent march to suburban villages just outside the capital.

Buildings within the city were destroyed by tons of projectiles, each like a cyclone, refugees here said. Barricades were erected at every street corner.

Officials Flee.
Those who fled here said that the insurgents had not yet crossed the Nervion river and had not reached the suburb of Begona, capture of which the Franco army claimed yesterday. There was an unconfirmed report that the invading army had occupied the Firestone tire factory outside Bilbao.

The first considerable flight of Basque officials was reported tonight. Six members of the Bilbao maritime police command and the harbor master at Las Arenas, near-by resort town, arrived at St. Jean de Luz in a small motorboat.

Three hundred additional Basque children were unloaded at the French port of Pauillac by the Spanish government destroyer Jose Luis Diez.

French refugees reaching border points near here reported the populace of Bilbao was in near panic.

Suburbs Crowded.

GERMANY FORBIDS SPECIAL COLLECTION BY CHURCH GROUP

Decree Deprives Synod of Means To Maintain Theological Seminaries.

BERLIN, June 16.—(AP)—The Nazi regime struck a new blow today against the confessional synod, long an opponent of Nazi domination of Protestant church affairs, by prohibiting special church collections without government permission.

The decree, if strictly enforced, deprives the synod of means by which it has been possible to maintain theological seminaries in defiance of state-appointed church authorities and to carry on the work of the synod.

The ruling provides that even when special services outside of the regular annual plans are called for any purpose whatsoever, no collection may be taken unless first approved by the government.

Often in the past special services have been held for arrested pastors and collections turned over to their families.

LOST BIRD SCIENTIST FOUND ALIVE ON ISLAND

SEATTLE, June 16.—(AP)—A message stating that John Holt Steenis, 31, Madison, Wis., scientist, lost four days on Agattu island far out in the Aleutians, had been found well and uninjured was received at coast guard headquarters here late today.

Steenis, a biological survey bird scientist, failed to rejoin the party working from the survey ship Brown Bear last Saturday.

ing, the arrest of 45 of his colleagues for treason and the execution of the former commander of the White Russian garrison.

"Salem Witch Hunt."

The continued denunciation of thousands of men, including many who have stood near the very top of the state and party organization, gave the Soviet Union the appearance of being engaged in a gigantic, nation-wide Salem witch hunt.

Foreign observers still were bewildered by the storm of charges and the scope and ruthlessness of the purge. No foreigner believed most of the charges in full, but most agreed they were evidence of chaotic dissension within the Soviet regime and showed that many persons desired, if they were not actually plotting, the downfall of Joseph Stalin.

The latest flood of charges of treason, "wrecking" and "diversion," centering in white Russia, alleged a huge conspiracy against Soviet agriculture.

Officials Arrested.

At Minsk, capital of White Russia, M. Goloded, president of the White Russian council of commissars, 10 former commissars of the state and numerous members of the state central executive committee were arrested.

They were charged with participation in a huge conspiracy. Chervinskoff was blamed for such a plot at a recent meeting of the Communist party.

General I. P. Ubovitch, former commander of the Red army garrison in White Russia, was one of eight high army officers executed June 12 for a plot to "disarm" the Soviet Union. It was understood the eight were charged with plotting to sever White Russia and the Ukraine from the union and give them to Germany.

A known total of 151 have been shot in the Soviet Union during the past year for treason, sabotage, "wrecking" and "diversionist" activities.

There was no further police activity tonight in connection with a taxi driver's story that he was sure he drove Mrs. Parsons, another woman and a man to the Pennsylvania station in New York last night.

SECOND GEORGIAN DIES OF CROSS CITY CRASH

COLUMBUS, Ga., June 16.—(AP)—The death toll of an automobile collision near Cross City, Fla., Monday mounted to two early today when Theron W. F. Tyler, of this city, died at City hospital as a result of injuries received. He had been in a critical condition since being brought here for treatment.

Lester Avant, also of Columbus, died shortly after the accident. Funeral services will be held for him Thursday afternoon at the East Pelham Baptist church, with interment in the cemetery there.

NEW STATE PARK WILL OPEN JULY 1

Georgia will open the second unit in its new state park system July 1, Vogel Park near Blairsville.

The 200-acre tract has been equipped with week-end cabins. Within a short time, Parks Director Charles N. Elliott said, he hopes to add between 3,000 and 4,000 more acres.

A 30-acre lake is one of the major attractions of the park, Elliott said. Fishing in it, with limitations, will be allowed starting in July.

The cabins—they number seven—are two-room affairs, fully equipped. Elliott said reservations have been made for practically the entire summer at all cabins.

At near-by Neal's Gap, the National Park Service is constructing an inn for public use.

JONES MAY HEAD VETERAN SERVICE

Navy Recruiting Officer, Legion Official, Reported Rivers' Choice.

Lieutenant Stanley Jones, navy recruiting officer at Macon, will succeed L. T. (Pat) Gillen as state veterans' service officer, a close associate of Governor E. D. Rivers announced yesterday.

Rivers tendered the position to Jones prior to leaving on his west coast trip Tuesday night, this source revealed, but withheld announcement pending the navy officer's decision on acceptance.

Acceptance by Jones will necessitate his retirement from the navy, with which he has been connected actively for the past 28 years. It is expected that 10 days will be required for him to complete the formality of leaving the service. Jones is adjutant of the Georgia department, American Legion.

Gillen resigned as veterans' service office Tuesday due to the poor condition of his health resulting, he said, from defective teeth. He would be replaced by the commissioning of Rivers' appointee.

Jones is recruiting officer for the navy in Georgia and Florida, and has his headquarters in Macon. He was in Atlanta yesterday conferring with state officials.

Business Recovery In Progress Parade

Business Is Booming In Auto Industry.

NEW YORK, June 16.—(AP)—America's love of traveling on wheels is proving a boon this year to many specialized lines of business.

Despite strikes and enforced shutdowns that cut down production in April and May, the healthy demand in the automobile industry continues unabated, statistics disclosed today.

That demand, estimated by Standard Statistics Company at 5,000,000 units for 1937, not much under the 1929 record figure of 5,622,000, has resulted in the best shipments since 1929 for accessory companies. Makers of every type of part, from springs to wire for lighting systems have benefited.

Dividend Declared By Pullman Company.

CHICAGO, June 16.—(AP)—Pullman Inc. today announced a dividend of 37 1/2 cents a share payable August 16 to stockholders on record of July 24.

Interest on Certificates Will Be Paid July 1.

NEW YORK, June 16.—(AP)—Interest on the certificates of deposits for the Republic of El Salvador series A, B and C bonds issued under the readjustment agreement dated April 27, 1936, will be paid on July 1 to holders of record June 19 by the Manufacturers Trust Company as paying agent.

FORD TO HALT PRODUCTION.

DETROIT, June 16.—(AP)—Harry H. Bennett, personnel director of the Ford Motor Company, said it would suspend production during the summer inventory period, but would maintain its employment level at approximately 40 per cent of normal.

MRS. W. W. WHITE, WOMEN'S LEADER, PASSES AWAY HERE

Pioneer Atlantan Will Be Buried Tomorrow in Crest Lawn.

Mrs. W. Woods White, pioneer Atlantan and prominent in the city's club, civic and cultural life, died yesterday afternoon at a private hospital, following a long illness.

Mrs. White was the wife of the late W. Woods White, prominent insurance man, philanthropist and patron of art. She lived at 641 Pelham road, N. E.

A member of an old and distinguished southern family, Mrs. White was born in Russellville, Ky., the daughter of Finis Ewing Harris and Mary L. Harris. Before her marriage, she was Miss Sina Lee Harris.

Attended Wellesley. Mrs. White was educated in Louisville, Ky., and later attended Wellesley College. She came to Atlanta from Wellesley to teach in the old Ballard School for Girls.

Shortly after her arrival here, she was married to Mr. White, and became interested in cultural, civic and club work. The Whites built the first home in College Park, and were credited with founding that community.

Mrs. White organized the College Park Woman's Club, and served as its president for many years. Following her removal to Atlanta from College Park, Mrs. White served as president of the Atlanta Woman's Club and the City Federation of Women's Clubs.

Member of U. D. C. She was a member of the United Daughters of the Confederacy, Kentucky Club, North Avenue Presbyterian church, and served as regent of the Joseph Habersham chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution. Mrs. White was also active in helping to raise a $1,000,000 endowment fund for Agnes Scott College, and was a charter member of, and active in the Y. W. C. A.

She is survived by four daughters, Mrs. C. L. Emerson, Mrs. Paul M. Potter, Mrs. Robert P. McHenry and Mrs. Albert H. Stanton, of Brussels, Belgium; three sons, W. Woods White, of Chattanooga; Delos H. White and Houston White, both of Atlanta; a sister, Mrs. Henry Ewing, of Louisville, Ky.; a cousin, Mrs. Gordon W. Mylre, of Kingston, Ont., and 13 grandchildren.

Final rites will be held at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning at Spring Hill, with Dr. Richard Orme Flinn officiating. Burial will be in Crest Lawn cemetery.

MRS. ROBERT TAYLOR DIES IN BALTIMORE

Sister of Mrs. James H. Nunnally, Was Born Here.

Mrs. Robert Taylor, 75, the former Fannie Winship, of Atlanta, died Tuesday at her residence in Baltimore. She was a native of Atlanta, but had made her residence in Baltimore for more than 50 years. She was wife of the late Robert Taylor and daughter of the late George Winship, of Atlanta.

Among the survivors are a sister, Mrs. James H. Nunnally, and three brothers, George, Joseph and Charles Winship, all of Atlanta.

Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock this afternoon at the residence of a sister, Mrs. Theodore K. Miller, of Baltimore.

RALPH SHROPSHIRE DIES AT CAPITAL

Former Railroad Official Native of Atlanta.

Ralph R. Shropshire, 54, native of Atlanta, and former official of the Southern railroad, died in Washington, D. C., Tuesday night. It was learned here yesterday.

A graduate of Georgia Tech, he accepted a position with the Southern immediately after receiving his diploma, and rapidly rose to the position of chief clerk to the vice president. Later he was a division freight agent in Augusta. For the past several years he has served as railroad supply firms' representative in Washington.

Surviving are his wife; two brothers, E. F. Shropshire, of Rome, and J. C. Shropshire, of 1011 McLynn avenue, N. E., and a sister, Mrs. Edna S. Colyar, of Rome. Burial will be today in Washington.

AFTERNOON SHOWERS ARE EXPECTED TODAY

Thunderstorms which broke over the city early last night are expected to continue today, probably in the afternoon. It was predicted at Candler airport weather office.

The storm last night brought approximately .83 inches of rainfall in about an hour's time. Temperatures today are expected to be higher than those of yesterday, when the range was between 67 and 88 degrees. Today's range is expected to be between 68 and 92 degrees.

BOY HEIR IS BORN TO BULGARIAN THRONE

SOFIA, Bulgaria, June 16.—(AP) A 100-gun salute thundered announcement of the birth of an heir to the Bulgarian throne today.

Queen Giovanna, wife of King Boris, gave birth to a son in the early morning at Vrana palace. Both the mother and the little crown prince, first son of the royal couple, were reported in excellent health.

Individual Social Security Credits Going on Uncle Sam's Books Soon

Reports From Employer's Due in July; State Board Begins Plans for Georgia's Participation in Benefits of U. S. Program.

All those pennies the boss has been taking out of checks on pay day haven't been poured into a rat hole, even if much hasn't been heard about them, and they will begin showing up on Uncle Sam's books in July.

At the same time that Joseph R. Murphy, manager of the Atlanta office of the Federal Social Security Board, announced first credits under the old age benefit program would go on record in Baltimore when employers report for the first half of 1937, state public welfare officials laid plans for Georgia's participation.

Half-Year Returns. Murphy said returns from employers would be filed during July covering the period from January 1 to June 30 and quarterly thereafter.

Every employer's account will begin then showing his credits, as reported by his employer, said Murphy, adding it has been estimated that beginning in about 15 years approximately $3,500,000,000 will be paid out annually in benefits.

Seventy per cent of those who begin to draw benefits after reaching the age of 65, Murphy also explained, would otherwise be dependent on others for support.

Employees were urged to get their account numbers assigned before July 1, so they can be included in their employers' reports to the government.

Numbers Needed. "Employers will need numbers in order to make proper returns," Murphy said.

Under terms of the social security act, employers are required to file their returns for the first six months of this year with the collector of internal revenue during July.

The Georgia Board of Public Welfare, in a day-long session, considered approval of county welfare committees appointed by local authorities subject to the state's approval.

While a partial list of approvals, subject to later change, was announced at the board offices, the complete list will not be available until Friday, Lamar Murdaugh, director, announced.

The county committees immediately upon formal approval will begin considering applications for old age pensions, aid to the blind, and aid to needy children.

State approved. The applicants must be examined by the local committee, and recommendations for action, including the amount of payment, must be sent to the state board for approval.

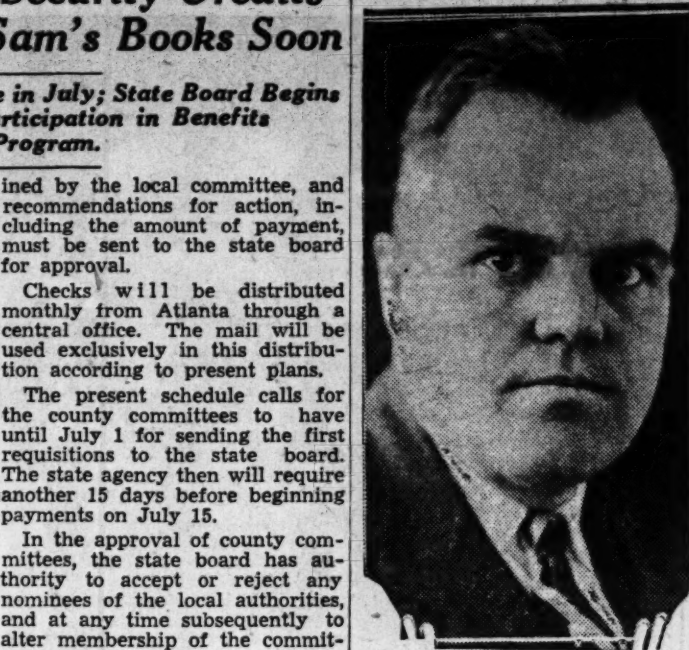

Checks will be distributed monthly from Atlanta through a central office. The mail will be used exclusively in this distribution according to present plans.

The present schedule calls for the county committees to have until July 1 for sending the first requisitions to the state board. The state agency then will require another 15 days before beginning payments on July 15.

In the approval of county committees, the state board has authority to accept or reject any nominees of the local authorities, and at any time subsequently to alter membership of the committees, officials said.

At the conclusion of the long session, Murdaugh said committees for 124 of the 159 counties had been approved, but that official lists would not be available pending the recording of the board's action.

ALUMNI OF TECH HONOR ATLANTAN

Frank M. Spratlin Becomes National President.

Frank M. Spratlin, of Atlanta, a member of the class of 1906, heads the National Georgia Tech Alumni Association for the coming year.

Among other new officers of the association, announced following tabulation of nation-wide balloting by mail, are G. M. Phillips, vice president of the Atlanta district; David I. Barron, of Monroe, vice president of the districts at large; Ed C. Liddell, of Atlanta, treasurer.

STUDENTS AWARDED PREVENTION PRIZES

Two Atlanta school boys, Cecil Appling, of Bass Junior High, and W. M. Holt, of Tech High, have been awarded an airplane trip in recognition of their fire inspector work in their school during the past year.

Appling flew to Birmingham yesterday where he will be entertained by Fire Chief B. O. Hargrove, who will show him the working of the Birmingham fire department.

Holt left by plane yesterday for a two-day visit to Charleston, where he is being entertained by Chief J. H. Wohlers, of the Charleston fire department.

Committee members said they expected him to present also an explanation of what he termed the "clever little schemes" by which taxes are avoided.

Secretary Morgenthau went from a White House conference to the treasury to complete the program for disclosing names at the initial hearing of a senate-house committee.

TVA CENTRALIZES SETUP OF AGENCY

J. B. Blandford Jr. Named Head of All Administrative Groups.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., June 16. (AP)—The Tennessee Valley Authority made a far-reaching change in its administration set-up today by appointing J. B.

Blandford Jr. general manager in charge of administration.

Blandford has been acting general manager since May 22, 1936, but by today's resolution, which becomes effective tomorrow, he was made the administrative head of all departments of the Authority.

In effect, the action centralizes the administration of the government agency. In the past, Chairman A. E. Morgan was considered the director in charge of engineering; David E. Lillenthal, director of power activities and legal questions, and H. A. Morgan, director of agricultural work.

Henceforth, the board of directors nominally will be a policy-making body.

Blandford came to the TVA in 1933 as assistant to Chairman Morgan. He resigned as public safety director of Cincinnati to accept the position.

Train Halts Ambulance; Wife Becomes Mother

WILMINGTON, Del., June 16. (AP)—A daughter was born today to Mrs. Marion Bennett, of New Castle, in an ambulance forced to stop at a grade crossing on the city's outskirts by a freight train.

Later, at the hospital, physicians said the mother and daughter were doing well.

NEGRO PASSES EXAMS, WILL ENTER ANNAPOLIS

ANNAPOLIS, Md., June 16.—(UP)—George J. Trivers, Chicago negro, passed physical examinations today and became the second negro to enter the United States Naval Academy in 25 years.

Officials said Trivers, appointed by Representative Arthur W. Mitchell, of Illinois, himself a negro, will be admitted immediately.

The first negro to attend Annapolis classes in a quarter-century also was an appointee of Mitchell. He was dropped from the school this year, however, for both academic and physical defects.

'ECONOMY' SLASH IN RELIEF SPENDING URGED BY BYRNES

Senator Calls for Cities and States to Assume More Costs.

WASHINGTON, June 16.—(UP)—Senator James F. Byrnes, Democrat, South Carolina, told the senate today that the federal government has been generous with states and cities long enough in paying for relief and that the time has come for these subdivisions to help reduce the national debt.

Byrnes argued that they might make a start in that direction through his amendment to the administration's $1,500,000,000 relief appropriation for 1938, which would require local sponsors of WPA projects to contribute 40 per cent of the requisite funds.

The short, gray-haired South Carolinian led a new "economy" onslaught against the bill which survived a lesser fight yesterday, believing that the increased requirements for local funds would tend to cut off the scramble of local communities for federal money.

Byrnes fought an uphill fight. On the eve of senate consideration of his amendment President Roosevelt characterized it at a press conference as likely to be unfair to some communities whose needs were greater than others. And soon after he took the floor Byrnes had aroused Senator Robert F. Wagner, Democrat, New York, by making references to New York's contributions to relief, so that state jealousies became involved.

NAVY SEEKS APPROVAL OF SIX NEW VESSELS

WASHINGTON, June 17.—(P)—Admiral W. D. Leahy, chief of naval operations, urged the house naval affairs committee today to approve construction of the first six vessels on a program to modernize the navy's auxiliary force. Over a period of years the navy will seek authorization for at least 42 more auxiliary craft, he testified.

W. R. MARTIN, 66, DIES AT RESIDENCE

Retired Kamper Associate Was Active Churchman.

W. R. Martin, 66, for 30 years a resident of Atlanta, died last night at the residence, 906 Gaston street, S. W., following an extended period of failing health.

He was a native of Knoxville, and had been associated with the Kamper Grocery Company here before he retired some time ago. He was active in affairs of the West End Presbyterian church, and had served as teacher of the Men's Bible Class of the Sunday school department.

Surviving are his wife; a daughter, Mrs. H. T. Watkins; a son, J. R. Martin, all of Atlanta; a sister, Mrs. Mattie Hopkins, of Rome, and a brother, the Rev. I. P. Martin, of Fountain City, Tenn. Funeral services will be announced by H. M. Patterson.

REAL ESTATE BOARD ANNUAL FETE HELD

Barbecue Highlights Outing at Druid Hills Golf Club.

Topped off with a barbecue, satisfying more than 500 hearty appetites, Atlanta real estate men, employees and scores of their friends, spent an entertaining afternoon yesterday at the Druid Hills Golf Club. It was the annual outing of the Atlanta Real Estate Board.

All board members' offices and practically all other places realty offices were closed at 1 o'clock, and the entire afternoon was spent in fun and frolic, the occasion closing with a dance running well into the night.

In general charge was Jesse Draper, who has served as chairman of the annual outing committee for several years. Other members of the committee appointed by President Paul C. Maddox were Henry Robinson, Gilbert Withers, H. E. Mayfield, Hoke Blair, Edmond Walthall, Harry Paschal Sr., Arlene Harris, Marie Suttles, Mary Helton, Margaret Snow, Frances Clark, Thelma Hayes and Edna Hazelrigs. The young women are connected with real estate offices.

Perhaps the busiest man on the grounds was Gyp Withers, master of ceremonies, who introduced participants striving for some of the dozen or more prizes donated by merchants and others. Withers pressed into service an outside friend, Howard Haire.

There was "something doing" every minute of the afternoon, starting with a golf tournament at 1 o'clock.

The main event was a barbecue served at 6:30 o'clock in the grove in the rear of the clubhouse. One hundred or more professional and business friends of realty men enjoyed the afternoon and dance with the realtors.

Some of the prize winners at the outing were:
Golf—Low gross score, Jack Adair; low net score, Harry Cowee; blind bogey, Puss Wooten.
Tennis—Singles, ladies, Irene Bishop; men, Cecil Silvertooth.
Ping-Pong—Mrs. Sharp Wall.
Horsehoe Throwing—Ladies, Emma Joe Sellers; men, Ed Harris.

Putting Contest—Ladies, Mary Lou Giles; men, M. L. McKinnon.
Potato Relay Race—Ladies, Mae Fineberg; men, "Possum" McLean.
Egg and Spoon Race—Ladies, Arlene Harris; men, Waco Crain.

SCHOOL BOOK BIDS ARE DUE ON JULY 19

Estimates of Cost Range to $2,500,000.

The State Board of Education will receive bids July 19 from publishers for furnishing texts for the new free school book program. Advertisements were forwarded to three newspapers of the state yesterday in accordance with the school book law, and after receiving the bids, the board will adopt an official "list" of texts to be distributed.

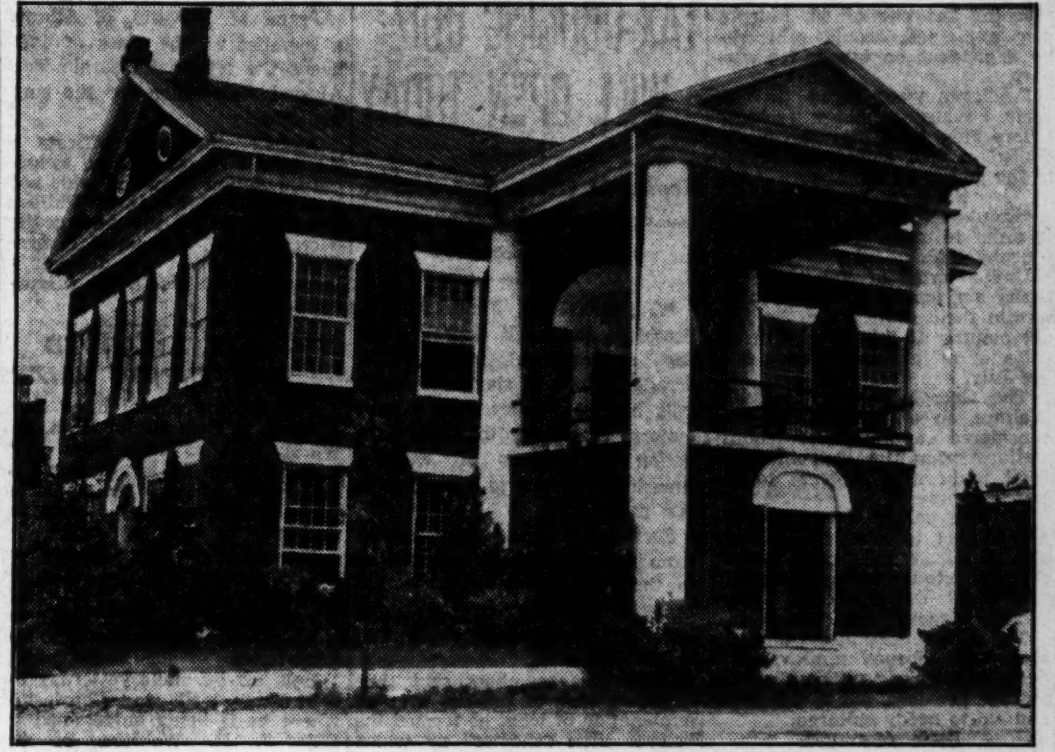

Estimates of the cost of books this year ranged in the proximity of $2,500,000. While the board furnished basic texts for the first six grades last year, it will furnish all books necessary for every student through the high school grades of public schools throughout Georgia.

Income from wine and beer taxes will be used to support the program.

Progressive Lumpkin Claims Oldest Court House

Lumpkin county commissioners are determined to win the $3,500 first award in The Atlanta Constitution's $7,500 Progressive Government Awards program. Shown (left to right) as they announced entry of the county are John H. Moore, chairman; L. J. Justus, C. O. Peck, R. C. Meaders, commissioner and clerk, and E. Trammell.

Said to be the oldest courthouse still in use in Georgia, the Lumpkin county structure shown above has served as such for the past 101 years. It is of red brick. Citizens proudly point it out to visitors.

ditions the soil, making planting easier. It already has prepared thousands of acres thus far this year and planters are clamoring for it because it does all this at a cost of only 70 cents an hour, and two acres are prepared for planting every hour it operates. Of course, 70 cents does not cover the entire cost, commissioners explained, but the county absorbs the balance by rigid economy.

Pay Is Low.

Commissioners normally are paid only $39 a year in this north Georgia county. R. C. Meaders, commissioner and commission clerk, said, "and we couldn't steal more than $150 a year each no matter how hard we tried."

"Several years ago, we issued $80,000 in road bonds. The state gave us highway certificates to cover the bond issue, and we held on to ours where other counties failed. In consequence we now are getting about $8,400 a year back from the state, enough to meet normal demands of our county and leave us something besides. We, therefore, have decided on a policy of franking taxes. Could anything be fairer? We do not think so. . . . I do not believe there is another county in all Georgia comparable to Lumpkin in size and ability which is in as good a financial condition."

Fiscal Policy Sound.
"That is due to sound fiscal policies. We believe in giving the people 100 per cent value for every dollar we spend and we insist on getting 100 per cent value. It costs us nearly as much to care for the poor in our county as it does for all other purposes, but we are doing a good job of it."

"About this awards program, which The Atlanta Constitution is sponsoring. We believe it is a fine thing. It will stimulate other counties to adopt a similar fiscal program. We at first thought it was only for the large, rich and populous counties, but a study has convinced us that every county in Georgia has an even opportunity to be on The Constitution's honor roll for the year. Lumpkin proposes to be there, and incidentally, we are out for the $3,500 first award."

Commissioners E. Trammell, a brother of John B. Trammell, of The Constitution mechanical staff; C. O. Peck and L. J. Justus concurred with Chairman Moore and Meaders.

Surplus Applied.
"We found we had $1,552 more this March than we had last March," Trammell said. "We, therefore, decided to give the farmers a break and help them with their planting. The harrow has become so popular that we are convinced we did the right thing. That harrow is a New Deal for the farmers of Lumpkin county." The federal government has just completed laying about 40 miles of hard-surfaced roads in the county. Lumpkin commissioners bought a rock crusher and other machinery costing $5,675 and will continue not won the Atlanta championship in past years.

Every boy entering the contest will have an equal chance. There will be no handicaps. Each driver will start his auto from scratch in heats of three. In case of bad starts the heats will be run over, it was announced yesterday.

The Atlanta derby and the Northeast Georgia derby will both be run July 24 here in Atlanta. The derbies in Athens, Griffin and Gainesville will be held probably a week prior to this date. Immediately after the Atlanta derby winner is selected, the lucky driver and the winners from the other Georgia cities will compete for the opportunity to go to Akron as The Constitution's standard bearer.

To the Georgia boy winning the Northeast Georgia running will go a grand prize which will thrill any youthful inventor's heart—a power tool work shop, valued at $250, which will be given by the Atlanta Chevrolet dealers.

Midsize Auto Prize.

Grand prize in the Atlanta derby is a midsize automobile to be presented to the winner by Loew's Grand theater. The NuGrape Bottling Company will give the boy constructing the best soap box car a midsize automobile. Other prizes include a bicycle to be presented by the Goodrich Silvertown stores of Atlanta; a wrist watch given by Al Belle Isle; silver trophies, gold, silver and bronze medals; pen and pencil sets, and numerous other sporting goods articles which thrill the youthful heart.

Advance enrollment in the derby indicates that this year will be the greatest in the history of the At-

MORE THAN 500 APPLY FOR MOVIE TALENT TEST

More than 500 applications have been received to date for screen tests in The Constitution's movie talent hunt. Many of these have splendid prospects, it was announced yesterday by Jack Marco, Hollywood director and leading man.

Rehearsals to Wait.

Rehearsals, however, will not begin until all applicants have had the opportunity of extended interviews with the talent scouts at the Georgian Terrace hotel.

Following the interviews and rehearsals, the actual sound film tests will be taken. These films will be processed and edited and the finished product then will open at a gala premiere at the Rialto theater for a week's run.

There are no strings attached to competing in the movie talent hunt. Applications should be made by letter to:

15 'DRY' DISTRICTS IN FULTON COUNTY WILL BE MADE ARID

Police Officers To Enforce Mandate Given in June 8 Vote.

Fifteen districts in Fulton county voted dry in the June 8 election and these districts are really going to be dry, county police officers averred yesterday.

Within the past three days they have confiscated seven large stills, all ready to make big runs, and the officers have announced they intend to catch their operators soon.

All seven stills were captured in the Little River and New Town districts. Officers working in this section yesterday announced emphatically that since the majority voted dry, the districts would be dry.

Asked if orders had been issued to other officers in dry voting districts, Chief George Mathieson said, "I have always ordered the men to enforce the law and that order will stand in the future."

Policemen H. H. (Tiny) Green and Hubert Reed, officers who have been on all seven raids, said the mandate of the people in New-town and Little River districts was to enforce prohibition and all stills would be "cleaned out immediately and the districts kept clean of liquor."

Districts in the county which may expect rigid enforcement of the state's dry law in view of their vote June 8 are: Alpharetta, Big Creek, College Park, Campbell, Double Branch, Fairburn, Goodes, Little River, Old Ninth, Old First, Newtown, Red Oak, Rivertown, Sandtown and Union.

Officers Green and Reed seized a 50-gallon still in Little River district late Tuesday afternoon, confiscating the still, 10 gallons of whisky and 300 gallons of mash.

2 MORE MARKETS TO SERVE WOMEN

Clubs To Supplement Original Sales Outlet.

Two more women's markets for Atlanta were in immediate prospect yesterday to supplement that established several weeks ago on Capitol avenue.

One is to be set up at the Atlanta Woman's Club on Peachtree street, under that organization's auspices, and the other in West End, sponsored by the West End Woman's Club and the West End Civic Club, according to announcement by Mrs. Robin Woods, head of the women's division of the State Bureau of Markets.

The Atlanta Woman's Club market will be under the direction of Mrs. W. W. Banks, and will handle domestic products such as handicraft, dairy items and similar articles.

VETERANS TO HEAR STATE COMMANDER

District Convention Will Be Held Saturday.

State Legion Commander Ed O'Connor, of Savannah, will be principal speaker at the fifth district convention of the American Legion to be held at 5 o'clock Saturday afternoon at Sheriff Jake Hall's "Dogwood Farm" in DeKalb county.

Colonel A. G. Conoley, of Atlanta, is commander of the fifth district, and will preside at the meeting. Stanley Jones, of Macon, state adjutant, will be a distinguished guest.

Ernest Johnson, of Decatur, a member of the Harold Byrd Legion post, is in charge of the barbecue committee.

COLLEGE PARK VOTERS TO DECIDE GOVERNMENT

College Park voters will ballot June 29 on whether to continue the mayor and council form of government or to elect a commission-city manager type.

A bill authorizing the vote on the choice of governments was passed at the last session of the Georgia general assembly.

Opening and closing time for the polls will be set by the council at the Monday night meeting.

The proposed new form of government would provide for a commissioner from each of the city's three wards. These three would elect a city manager and he would serve as long as his services were satisfactory to the majority of the commissioners.

Under the present city government there are two councilmen from each ward and a mayor, all elective offices.

ATLANTA, GA., JUNE 17, 1937.

TAX ON INTANGIBLES

Governor Rivers has appointed a special committee to study and to make recommendations on the proposed tax on intangible property in Georgia, authorized under one of the constitutional amendments approved in the recent election.

It has for years been acknowledged that the burden of taxation on real estate is unjust and burdensome. Yet, under the state constitution, it has been impossible to levy an equitable tax upon other forms of property.

The constitution provided that the rate of taxation should be uniform. In the case of stocks, bonds, money and other intangibles such a tax would have amounted to confiscation, in that it would have equaled or exceeded the dividend or interest earning capacity of the property. While, theoretically, all property was supposed to be returned for taxation, in actual practice only a negligible amount of these intangibles ever reached the tax digests.

Now, under the amendment approved in the election of June 8, it will be possible to classify different forms of property for taxation at different rates.

It will be the object of the committee appointed by Governor Rivers to determine what rates shall be imposed on the various forms of intangibles. Those rates must be fair. They must divide the burden of taxation equitably, working injustice on no form of property at the expense of another.

Owners of intangible property will be the first to welcome the opportunity to share in support of the state government if they can do so without too heavy a drain upon the earnings of their investments.

A fair tax rate will bring to the digest millions in property now untaxed. An unfair rate will merely drive out of the state many large holdings, following a trend which has been under way for years, in order to escape confiscatory rates.

That fair rate must be determined by the new committee which will report to Governor Rivers after his return from the west, where he is now recuperating after an operation. Then it is probable the legislature will be called into special session to enact the new tax laws, with the findings of the committee to serve as a basis for their deliberations.

THE APPROPRIATION FOR RELIEF

The United States senate has voted with the administration on the first item in the $1,500,000,000 relief bill. It refused to approve a committee recommended amendment to return to the Treasury more than $200,000,000 in unobligated balances from previous relief appropriations.

President Roosevelt has asked that the relief money be provided without "earmarking" for any specified purposes. An attempt in the house to allocate practically one-third of the total to particular projects was defeated. It is expected that any similar senate proposals will meet the same fate.

The President should be given the administration of this relief fund. Regardless of the need—whether the amount carried in the bill, $1,500,000,000, is too large or insufficient—economical use of the money demands control without strings.

President Roosevelt can be trusted to see there is no unnecessary waste. The problem of public relief, one of the most difficult which faced him when he first entered the White House, has been wisely handled, on the whole.

It will be much better to leave the administration of the relief fund in the hands of President Roosevelt than to permit the clashing interests of individual members of congress to war over allocations to projects in their particular states or districts.

There must be no taint of "patronage" in the allocation of relief funds. They must be used where the need is greatest. They must be allocated, not as localized political favors, but on a nation-wide basis to best serve the purpose for which they are appropriated.

THE WARM SPRINGS ENDOWMENT

The resumption of the campaign to raise $100,000 as the Georgia quota of a national endowment for the Warm Springs Foundation should bring prompt response from every citizen of the state.

This campaign, originally launched last January, was deferred because of the national flood emergency. It has now been renewed and should meet with full success.

Georgia was asked to be the first state to raise its quota for this national fund, because the Warm Springs Foundation is located in this state and because it is the part-time home of President Roosevelt. The President has given his indorsement to the endowment campaign and has asked that funds sufficient to guarantee future operation of the Foundation be raised during his term of office.

Leaders in the Georgia campaign announce that approximately $40,000 of the $100,000 asked in this state has been pledged. Troup and Muscogee counties have already oversubscribed their quotas. Other counties will soon join the list of quota-fillers.

Georgia will give gladly to this cause, not only because of President Roosevelt's interest and appeal, but also because of the great contribution to health and human happiness the Warm Springs Foundation makes in its war against infantile paralysis.

EDUCATORS—NOT TRICKSTERS

Chief of Police M. A. Hornsby is to be commended for his ruling that traffic police shall not become plainclothes officers for the purpose of trapping violators of the traffic ordinances. The chief expresses the opinion that the use of civilian attire by traffic officers on duty is "unsportsmanlike."

It is not only unsportsmanlike, but it is contrary to the purposes of police work. The primary duty of a policeman in dealing with the general public is to secure better law enforcement through education. The best policeman is not the one who makes the most arrests, but the one who achieves fullest law observance on his beat with the fewest arrests.

The uniform of a policeman is an integral part of that respect for the law he is supposed to inspire. The blue-clad officer is not only an individual charged with enforcement of law, he is a symbol of the law itself and should so conduct himself as to make his uniform an object of universal honor.

Trickery, such as going on traffic duty clad in overalls, lowers that respect and creates resentment on the part of those arrested. A man in overalls may trap more traffic violators, but he is in poor position to educate users of the city streets in observance of the laws enacted for their safety.

That education brings better results than wholesale arrests is strikingly proven by the tremendous improvement in traffic conditions which has been observed in Atlanta during recent weeks. Inauguration of the police school has already brought splendid results. It is now possible to drive on the downtown traffic arteries, even during the rush hours, with reasonable speed and without the irritation of constant stops and starts.

This improved condition can be attributed to the training provided for traffic officers and for the patient educational work they, in turn, have done with drivers and pedestrians.

For such work the uniform is essential. Overalls police are out of place on Atlanta streets. This is not a rural community seeking revenue by highway traps. It is a dignified metropolis with proper pride in its police force and full confidence in their ability to bring about better law observance through legitimate, open methods.

THE CITY SHARES

Increasing business activity and rising values are reflected in the announcement from the city hall that there will be approximately $100,000 more revenue this year than anticipated. Gains will be realized from almost every source, it is predicted.

This added money solves a number of problems for the finance committee and for city council. It permits purchase of badly needed new equipment for the fire department and removes the necessity for wholesale increases in the scale of business licenses.

If, as indicated, it will permit restoration of salary reductions now in effect for city workers without endangering the financial stability of municipal affairs, that too will be gratifying.

One of the most important items to be provided from the new revenue is the city's one-third share of a proposed survey of government in Atlanta and Fulton county. First proposed by a group of business leaders, the expenses of the survey will be equally shared by the county, the city and the Chamber of Commerce. The county and the Chamber of Commerce have already agreed to provide their portions of the fund, contingent upon like action by the city. Council should not hesitate to follow the recommendation of its finance committee and appropriate the comparatively small sum, $6,333, needed for this survey.

It has been further suggested that Dr. Thomas Reed be employed to make the survey, a suggestion which should be followed. Dr. Reed is the acknowledged leader in municipal investigation. His diagnosis of civic ills can be depended upon as unbiased, definite and authentic.

The results of a survey conducted by Dr. Reed will accurately reveal the true conditions in administrative affairs of the two local governments. If there is no need for change, he will say so. If changes can be made that will result in more economical and better service to the taxpayers, he will recommend those changes. Where duplication in service exists, he will point it out, and if merging, either in whole or in part, of the two governments is desirable, he will so declare.

There is every ground to believe the sum expended in this proposed survey will bring greater returns, in increased value received for each tax dollar, than any spent here in many years.

Franco lost his best general in a plane crash at the front. It's his other right-hand man, back in Rome, who says "live dangerously."

A novelist, back from Madrid, says he stayed at a hotel that was struck by three bombs. No book reviewer in particular is suspected.

Editorial of the Day

A SENATOR WARNS THE DOCTORS

(From the Asheville Citizen-Times.)

We should like very much to have heard the informal discussion among the doctors at Atlantic City after they had listened to the address of Senator J. Hamilton Lewis before the American Medical Association.

Senator Lewis told the doctors that, although he himself was "utterly against" and "wholly abhorred" the thing which he was predicting, the fact remained that a board of doctors was going to be established, either by the President or by some officers of the federal government, "to pass upon their fellow doctors having the right to be admitted to be a practitioner under the federal law."

He warned them that they must quit thinking about those whom they treat as their "patients" and learn to think of them as "citizens." The government, he said, is going to insist upon all its citizens, men and women, having certain services according to their needs; and the doctors who render medical service will be treated as officers of the federal government.

The trend of the times is undoubtedly more and more positively in the direction in which the senator from Illinois points.

Behind Washington Headlines

By H. R. BAUKRAGE.

STRIKES WASHINGTON, June 18.—The sandbag barrier that kept the strike question away from the White House door finally broke.

There is good reason to believe that, long before Governor Davey, of Ohio, made his first futile effort to bring together the representatives of Tom Girdler, of the Republic Steel Corporation, and John L. Lewis, the President had decided to pick up the ball, if the Governor dropped it.

The idea, it would seem, after consulting the tea leaves, was that Secretary of Labor Perkins would appoint a board of mediation, as was done before in the case of the west coast maritime strike.

Such a play, if made, might well be considered a wishful attempt to answer the question raised by a still, small voice, whose stillness decreased in indirect ratio to the sound of the bursting tear-gas bombs.

It was the man-in-the-street, who, removing his gas-mask, paused to inquire:

"Why can't the government bring us industrial peace through the National Labor Relations Board we've heard so much about?"

"Why doesn't John Lewis demand an election in the Republic Steel plants to show that a majority of the workers are CIO-ers and would control collective bargaining?"

"If he hasn't a majority, why doesn't Republic Steel ask for an election and end the matter there?"

BELLIGERENTS' ANSWERS This writer patiently put these naive questions to all the parties concerned.

Republic Steel officials answered: "The statute doesn't permit us to put anything up to the National Labor Relations Board."

The chairman of the board emphatically confirmed this. He did admit that, while an "informal complaint" might be made by the employer, there wouldn't be any official pigeon-hole in which to file it.

The question addressed to John Lewis' office found him incommunicado and no official reply forthcoming. But the answer can be safely assumed to be approximately this:

"You strike when it's good strategy to strike."

A strike may be as sound a means of obtaining a majority as button-holing prospects and collecting their dues.

ANOTHER QUESTION At this point, there is faintly borne on the breeze another unanswered question that may be a little nearer to the answer:

"Is it proposed to remedy the often alleged 'one-sidedness' of the National Labor Relations act by giving employers substantive rights equivalent to those which workers are accorded under the act?"

You may have forgotten it, but the questioner was Senator Robert F. Wagner himself, the man who wrote the act. That was some time ago, and his question was intended to be both rhetorical and ironical.

Now the echo, rising again from the distant hills, answers, "Is it?"

SECRET PARLEYS In the reddened and angry sky which seems to hang over the industrial world, some businessmen claim to see a small and hopeful cloud. No bigger than a man's hand, but the hand is President Roosevelt's. True, the President hasn't invited anyone conspicuous in the marts of trade to board the Potomac on one of those week-end cruises. But, as one businessman, wise in the ways of Washington, remarked with a shrug: "How could you expect him to, with policies what they are?"

This much, however, though anything but advertised, is what is happening: Very privately and therefore, it is believed, more effectively, an exchange of views between the administration and the business world is beginning under circumstances where no publicity will bother either side. One of the media of exchange selected is conferences between government officials and business editors, a group upon which President Hoover leaned heavily for guidance.

WANTS TO QUIT Lying unanswered on the desk of the attorney general, as this is written, is the resignation of Charles E. Wyzanski Jr., special assistant, assigned to the solicitor general's office, and one of the most successful of the shock troops called in after many New Deal defeats at the hands of the supreme court.

He argued one of the four Wagner labor act cases, and the social security case relating to unemployment insurance. He won eight of the nine cases he argued, the one lost being a very minor one.

He's off to Europe for a vacation after August 1, and then back to his old firm in Boston, Ropes, Grey, Boyden & Perkins—which he left when he joined the Department of Labor as solicitor in 1933.

BLURB FOR BULBS Whatever the rest of the world thinks of the TVA, George Gillingham, its Washington press agent, courageously sticks to his slogan, which he says is to help "make two bulbs of glass glow where only one glew before."

SILHOUETTES

"Gosh! Ain't it hot!"
If you should meet with me;
Instead, remark,

Don't Advertise

Your Absence From Home.

Now that the season of vacations is with us once again, it might prove serviceable to some readers to pass on a little advice as to how an empty house should appear. It might result in considerable savings.

The idea is, don't put up a wordless advertisement to every prospective burglar that your home is deserted for the summer. Lots of people leave houses that are little less than invitations for deductions.

First, lower all the shades. Leave 'em at the usual position, half mast or higher.

Don't arrange the porch furniture so anyone can see it hasn't been recently used.

Don't forget to have the daily deliveries of milk, newspapers, etc., stopped. A row of untouched milk bottles or a pile of unopened newspapers just shriek invitation to the prowling criminal.

Now for some things to do: Leave the house looking normal. Shades at half mast, porch furniture haphazard, etc.

Secure all the door and window fastenings.

Store your valuables at a bank or some other safe place.

Stop milk and newspaper deliveries.

Notify the police when you plan to leave and how long you expect to be away.

Do these and there's nothing else to be done. Unless you can discover, and afford to pay, an honest watchman.

Keep the Record

Straight, Please.

The Postoffice Department lately seems to have fallen into the habit of disseminating misinformation. Latest instance is found in announcement from Washington concerning the forthcoming "Virginia Dare" 5-cent stamp. This issue, it is stated, "will commemorate the birth of the first white child on the American continent."

Tut, tut! That is too sweeping. Virginia, according to records, was the first white child of British parentage born in North America this side of the Rio Grande.

But the Spanish had occupied portions of the continent for 80 years prior to Virginia's birth and, in the natural course of events, they had increased and multiplied in full accord with Biblical injunction.

Then it is well recorded that not later than the year 1,000, a certain Thorfinn Karlesfin and his wife, Gudrid, traveled from their home in Greenland to Vinland, on the American coast, and there, with their followers spent a winter. During that winter Gudrid gave birth to a boy she named Snorre.

Later Thorfinn went back to Greenland and then took his wife and son to the old homeland, Norway. And Snorre grew to manhood, married and had a family. Two of his great-grandsons became Christian bishops.

It's quite possible Christopher Columbus got some of his information about America from the descendants of Snorre, for the Portuguese mariner is known to have visited Scandinavia prior to his historic voyage to the West Indies.

But please, postoffice folks, don't claim that little Virginia Dare was the first white child born on the American continent.

Let's Paint

Sidewalks Red.

It is announced that the sidewalks and pathways of the Golden Gate International Exposition, to be held in San Francisco in 1939, will all be painted a reddish hue. Why?

Because "it is a color which will raise the emotional level of visitors and keep them gay and vivacious."

It is claimed that on red sidewalks men appear more romantic and are, actually, freer spenders. And the effect on women is to make them appear younger and more beautiful.

So you see there is both economic and aesthetic value in the color of the sidewalks on which you stroll.

Ahoy, Mister Hartfield! How 'bout it?

Fair Enough

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

Congressional WASHINGTON, June 18.—As a preliminary to the congressional investigation of moral and civil delinquency on the part of persons who pay no more than their legal dues under the income tax, the house of representatives has turned down a bill which would have imposed a local income tax on the boys, themselves.

The District of Columbia faces a deficit of $6,000,000 for the coming fiscal year, and a small income tax was proposed, among other measures, to meet the problem. This bill would have taxed the congressmen and their secretaries, clerks and political appointees residing in Washington, and indignantly cried out against the historic halls of the sacred heritage on Capitol Hill.

Incidentally, the secretaries and clerks in some cases are more or less needy relatives or political liabilities of the statesmen, who might otherwise require whole or partial support out of a man's own pay of $10,000 a year, plus mileage and perquisites. It is much less burdensome to support a wife, a no-good cousin or an indigent brother-in-law afflicted with chronic fatigue, on government pay, as a secretary or clerk than to get the loved one's need direct, out of the $10,000 a year plus mileage and perquisites.

The statesmen get an allowance of 20 cents a mile for their travel, but it is earnestly suggested that no crime, or civil delinquency among the tax-paying classmen, that much in computing his costs of calling on the customers. The Internal Revenue Department would defy him to cite any railroad, plane or omnibus line in the country which charges 20 cents a mile for travel and might indict him for attempting to rob the serving poor.

Internal Revenue The internal revenue also would look extremely askance at any return which named the wife, no-good cousin or indigent brother-in-law of the taxpayer as his secretary or clerk, and require him to show cause. Members of congress, however, are not required to prove that their travel costs 20 cents a mile, and there are no laws that require a statesman, driving his own flivver, sleeping in four-bit flops and subsisting on hot dogs along the road, can travel for as little as a nickel a mile, including tips.

As for the employment of wives, no-good cousins and indigent brother-in-laws as secretaries and clerks, custom and the moral and civil conscience of the statesmen, long ago provided the color of legality. So the issue is closed.

All the congressmen and their office employees, including relatives, as well as their political liabilities holding government jobs, are exempt from the income taxes of their respective states. However, Mr. Dies, a sterling statesman from Texas, who took part in the successful resistance to the outrage, issued a patriotic statement for the record that he would gladly lay down his state income tax if he were not unfortunately forbidden to do so by several rulings of the federal supreme court.

Mr. Dies' heart bled openly in anguish over his constitutional incapacity to share the income tax burden of his home state of Texas, which has no state income tax anyway. Nevertheless, on principle, he declared he was not willing to submit to a local income tax to save from bankruptcy the District of Columbia, in which he spends much of his time enjoying the benefits of the police, fire department and the street cleaning services.

Lion-Hearted It will be seen, however, that Patriot Dies was, morally and ethically pure, and in no degree unfit to sit in judgment on tax-dodgers who evade their taxes.

Another patriot who resented the proposed outrage was Congressman O'Connor, of New York. Lion-hearted desperado was Texas in the absence of the Rev. Father Charlie (Cash-and-Carry) Coughlin—threatened to kick him all the way up Pennsylvania avenue, from the capitol to the White House, but later explained that he did not mean that literally.

Congressman O'Connor pays no salary, and he is on account of his federal service under a law which was enacted very quietly in Albany several years ago, and so are his secretaries and his congressional clerks.

O'Connor's refusal to pay income tax toward the maintenance of Washington, D. C., where he resides much of the time, was based on contempt for the selfish spirit of the Washington people. He called them leeches, but owing to the regrettable limitations on debate in the house of representatives did not explain the difference between a leech and a patriot who pays no state income tax on his salary, but nevertheless enjoys the right to a state pension for federal service in a state where he pays no income tax.

With this blast, the statesmen of the house of representatives sounded the moral keynote of the inquiry into the ingenuous evasion and avoidance of income taxes.

Memorial Day.

On March 12, 1866, the Columbus, Ga., Times published a letter from Mrs. Mary Ann Howard Williams, proposing that a day be set aside "to wreath the graves of our martyred dead with flowers," and thus instituted the memorial day custom in the south that was adopted in time in the north. The south, however, still has no uniform memorial day. Various states observe it on April 26, May 10, May 30 and June 3.

The Able Man's First Step In Reforming the World Is To Make Himself the Boss

By ROBERT QUILEN

When John D. Rockefeller died, most of his obituaries mentioned the business methods that made him a target for reformers 40 years ago. Some of them called him a pirate and high priest of privilege whose good works could not pay for the evil he had done.

Do you know what his crimes were? Well, he entered the oil business when it was a dog-eat-dog competition in producing and selling axle grease and "coal oil."

Despite 40 competitors, his enterprise and efficiency soon made his company the strongest in the field. Thus far, nobody called him a pirate, for he lacked the power to say, "Stand and deliver." Then he began to dream an old, old dream and suffer an old, old annoyance.

People got in his way. Stupid people who couldn't see what he saw. Inefficient, backward people, content with the old ways.

He dreamed of a great corporation, with himself in control, that would absorb all other companies, eliminate waste and useless conflict and conduct the oil business for the greater good of all concerned, including the public.

Then began his sins, chief of which were the obtaining of lower freight rates and the elimination of competitors.

There were competing railroads almost everywhere, and Rockefeller gave his business to the one that gave him the lowest freight rate and denied it to his competitors. Then as now the biggest buyer got the best price. When this arrangement caused talk, Rockefeller paid the usual rate and the railroads gave him a refund.

Given cheaper transportation, he was able to undersell competitors. He bought them out when he could; otherwise he starved them out. When a newly purchased refinery proved too inefficient for his standard, he junked it.

This in time he made himself ruler of a business empire that was all he had dreamed of making it.

He differed from other such dreamers only in two particulars. He made his dream come true, and he was a piker.

He was first of the modern totalitarians. But he dreamed only of controlling and managing the oil business, while they dream of controlling and managing everything within the borders of a nation or an empire.

After, Napoleon, Kaiser Wilhelm, Hitler, Mussolini—each in turn had the Rockefeller idea: get rid of opposition, centralize authority, and let a good man manage the whole works as it should be done.

The idea isn't new, and we haven't seen the last of it.

WORLD'S WINDOW

By PIERRE VAN PAASSEN.

Stalin's Reasons.

When Germany was down and out and the democratic republic of Weimar inherited from the dilapidated and defeated empire a chaotic economy, a disillusioned nation and a hopeless diplomatic and international situation, there were some Reichswehr officers who conceived the notion that Germany might regain her position and prestige in the world with the aid of Russia. The idea caught hold in political circles with the result that Germany and Russia concluded an alliance at San Remo in 1923.

Hitler came to power in 1933, the arch-enemy of Bolshevism, but he did not abrogate the treaty with the Soviet Union. As a matter of fact, in spite of a deal of verbal duelling, Russia and Germany continued to be each other's best customers. Even today Russia supplies two-thirds of the Reich's requirements of raw materials for her huge armament campaign.

Many of the Reichswehr officers, the highest command in fact, still holds to the theory that a Russo-German combination is unbearable in this world. Trotsky hinted some months ago, when Stalin accused him and his followers of having had secret dealings with Germany for the position of the Soviet Union, that the shoe really pinched on the other foot. In fact, it appears now almost certain that Mikhail Tukhachevsky, the marshal who has just been executed, had some conversations on that subject in the Reichswehr circles in Berlin on the occasion of his European round-trip last spring.

Bolshevism Must Be Destroyed. Tukhachevsky did nothing treasonable. He probably carried out the instructions and suggestions of Stalin himself when he established direct contact with the German-Russian alliance. He is, to the contrary, of VISITORS FIND ATLANTA DIRTY.

Editor Constitution: Visiting in Atlanta for the first time in several years, I cannot refrain from mentioning the impressions of my party. You will not feel flattered but I must join my party in saying that Atlanta is the dirtiest city we have ever visited. I am a native Georgian and do not say this with malice, but with humiliation for the capital of my state. We visited your state capitol and were astounded at the disorder and dirt in the building. It is a beautiful structure and one well worth taking pride in, but just inside the front entrance, were stacks of dusty cartons such as one seen in a freight warehouse. The farther we went the more evidence we saw of neglect and filth. We hesitated to put our hand on the banister railing along the stairs—they were so unreasonably dirty. The wood work was dusty and so badly in need of paint we could not believe we were in the state's capitol. The museum is indeed very interesting, and one to make the public mindful of Georgia's actual wealth and worth, but it was poorly lighted and badly kept.

The concession stands in Atlanta's parks are so dirty we hesitated to even drink in them. We could not understand the health department allowing food and drinks to be sold from such unsanitary places. Many of your downtown drug stores are no better. We have backed out of some of them because the floors were so littered and dirty we did not believe them to be sanitary enough for us to accept service in them. Your streets are littered from end to end with papers and inexcusable debris of every description which impresses the visitor at once that Atlanta is decidedly lacking in civic pride. You have the most wonderful possibilities for the cleanest and most beautiful city in the south if you just would take the pride in making it so.

Can you not appeal to your city council, health department and citizens at large for a fund to clean up Atlanta and enforce its sanitary laws so that it will become the model city of the south? I'm sure if you realized how very much criticism your city gets in this respect you would indeed start a clean up campaign.

YELLOWSTONE NATIONAL PARK

Mother Nature puts on an amazing show in Yellowstone. It's a continuous performance, and people from all over the world come to attend... and applaud. Included among its attractions are spouting geysers, bubbling "paint pots," mud volcanoes, brilliant colored pools, a canyon of gorgeous hue, a falls nearly twice the height of Niagara. Here, too, the greatest wild animal sanctuary in America!

A 3 1/2-day Circle Tour of the Park, including meals and lodging, permits you to see every attraction that Yellowstone has to offer — and to see them all comfortably and economically. GOOD MORNING

By LOUIE D. NEWTON.

Miss Dorothy Thompson, woman columnist No. 1 in my opinion, wrote something a few days ago that should not only be read, but re-read. She was dealing with the strange situation that is developing throughout our nation under the leadership of the left wing of organized labor. If you read the article by Miss Thompson, and I hope you read them all, you will recall that she pointed out the fact that certain extremists in the CIO group are now presuming to censor what is sent through the mails, and are allowed to get away with it. She points out elsewhere in her article that for some time these radical leaders have closed public streets to traffic, confiscated private property, and so on—a fact which we read about almost daily—but now when they take charge of the United States mails, it really does look as if this strange situation should arouse the country to action.

The outright seizure on Monday, June 7, of the city of Lansing by a local of the United Automobile Workers' Union is the most surprising public stroke of the radicals in their entire wave of lawlessness. With a number of people in their graves, others suffering in hospitals throughout the country, many forced out of work, business crippled, and the majesty of the law openly flouted, the day is surely not far distant when the great host of good men and women in organized labor will throw off this octopus and fully disclaim their even tacit approval of such anarchy.

America is what she is because of law. There is no liberty apart from law. We cannot prosper in the deeper and finer sense of the word when any sizeable group of our citizens undertake to establish anarchy. The nation will not stand for it, and I believe that the ultimate, and I trust early, revolt will come from within the ranks of labor.

THIS MORNING

By JOHN TEMPLE GRAVES II.

"To paint the lily, gold refined gold, cast a perfume upon the violet, add another hue to the rainbow..."

Last week 600 bales of cotton from Brazil arrived at Columbia, S. C., for use in a local mill. Consternation was no less than that which must have ensued when the coal of adage fame was hilled to Newcastle. When coal was brought to Newcastle the Newcastlemans must have had many things to say about it. Some of them, of course, just said it was ridiculous. Some asked the price and the quality of the coal, suspecting a serious fault perhaps with their own. Some undoubtedly demanded tariff protection at once. And all were uneasy. The reaction at Columbia and throughout the south is similar. Cotton to Columbia is as shocking and apparently, superfluous a transaction as coal to Newcastle.

The shock is not relieved by reassurances from the southern cotton merchants who shipped this cotton. They say it is merely a routine experiment, but they do not promise that the experiment will fail. We agree with The Columbia State that this alarming transaction calls first of all for information that will "give the southern cotton grower a true picture of the quality of competition which is developing." If Brazil is producing quality cotton that compares with the south's in quality and can undersell it on the world market, the important thing is to know about it in order to see what can be done about it.

After the War Between the States many a southerner migrated to Brazil because it was reputed to be a land comparable with this one in climate and growing conditions. History takes a queer turn if the Brazil which was once looked to as an asylum for the south is to be regarded now as an economic menace to the south. The menace is made more sharp, too, by parallel news of a new outbreak of the boll weevil in the south.

What we can't understand about these so-called wrestling matches is the failure of contestants to use knives, revolvers and blackjacks. To refrain when there is so little refraining from anything else seems a bit meticulous.

Listen, for example, to the description of a wrestling match in Columbia, S. C., last week: "To open the match Burns started to mix it up with Powell before the opening bell. . . . Burns tossed him around the ring while he still had his robe on. . . . Burns had thrown Powell from the ring and Powell made his way with a chair in his hand which he had taken from the timekeeper. Burns snatched it. . . . and turned the tables when he smashed the chair over Powell's head. The blow knocked Powell out, not to mention a deep gash it cut in his head. Burns fell on him to take the deciding fall."

The ancient gladiatorial combats and the modern bull fights are thought of as bloody affairs with the blood itself for their principal attraction. They seem more sporting and elevated, however, than this so-called wrestling. Strange indeed is our American civilization. It won't let roosters fight, but crowds to see human beings fight as ruthlessly as roosters.

The proposed federal law limiting the length of freight trains to 70 cars as a safety measure is opposed by the Association of Ameri-

EXCHANGE RECORD PUT IN EVIDENCE

Kopald-Quinn Trial Judge Admits Material.

Official records of the Chicago Stock Exchange and letters relating to dealings of Kopald-Quinn and Company with E. P. Dixon, Kinston, N. C., were admitted as evidence yesterday by Judge E. Marvin Underwood in trial of the Kopald-Quinn mail fraud case in the United States court here.

The Chicago exchange records purported to reflect trading in Stutz stock over a given period. They were introduced by the government several weeks ago, but a final ruling on their admission Judge Underwood had deferred until yesterday.

POPE TELLS PRIESTS TO RETURN TO REICH AND UPHOLD FAITH

Pontiff Extends Special Blessing and Deplores Nazi Persecution.

CASTEL, GANDOLFO, Italy, June 16.—(AP)—Pope Pius told a group of graduate priests today to go back to Nazi Germany and uphold their faith "where a blind battle rages against God and the church of Christ."

He gave to the priests of the German-Hungarian College of Rome a "special great blessing" for their forthcoming work in Germany where "only the Catholic church is the bearer of the redemption and the preserver of this glorious treasure of truth."

The Pope spoke of the "sad hour of persecution" in Germany, in which he said, "Each is persecuted because of his love of Christ."

STATE GARDEN SCHOOL WILL BE OPENED TODAY

ATHENS, Ga., June 16.—(AP)—The second annual two-day state garden school will open at the University of Georgia tomorrow. The school is sponsored by the University of Georgia in co-operation with the Georgia Garden Club, of which Mrs. Donald Hastings, of Atlanta, is president.

State Father's Day Proclaimed Sunday

Sunday is officially Father's Day in Georgia.

Governor Rivers said so before he left on a vacation tour. He signed a proclamation under which sons and daughters of Georgia officially join friends throughout the nation in paying tribute to "the grand old man."

bama, was appointed chairman of the commodity committee, and Governor Gordon Browning, of Tennessee, as chairman of the class committee.

Differential Chairman. Governor Rivers said he was appointed chairman of the committee seeking the abolition of differential rates for the entire country.

The Georgia governor, who described those states "lying south of the Ohio river and east of the Mississippi river" as being "southeastern territory" while the rest of the country is known as "official territory" said the southeastern group, in moving freight into the other territory has to pay higher freight rates which sometimes amount to 27 per cent.

This differential, he said, was assigned to lack of traffic density and was not in line with President Roosevelt's message to congress in which the President objected to "this barrier against the south."

Governor White said Maine farmers can ship produce to Detroit at freight rates 27 per cent below the cost Louisiana farmers pay for a similar haul. Governor Leche declared that such sectional differentials were retarding development of the south.

Will Go to Roosevelt. When the petitions of the three committees have been submitted to the Interstate Commerce Commission, Governor Rivers said, the nine governors will go to Washington to lay their problem before President Roosevelt.

With the main business of the day out of the way, Governor White tendered Governor Rivers an invitation to a regatta to be held there this summer.

SOUTH'S FREIGHT RATES IN WAGE, HOUR HEARING

WASHINGTON, June 16.—(AP)—Representative Robert Ramspeck, of Georgia, acting chairman of the house labor committee, said today a joint committee holding hearings on national wage and hour legislation will hear testimony Monday on southern freight rates.

The witness, he said, will be J. Haden Alldredge, an economist of the Tennessee Valley Authority. Alldredge prepared the report which Chairman Arthur E. Morgan, of the TVA, used as the basis of a statement to President Roosevelt that the territorial system of rate-fixing was one of the south's greatest handicaps.

LE BLANC TO HEAD RESTAURANT MEN

Named Charter President at Organization Meeting Last Night.

J. W. LeBlanc was named charter president of the Atlanta Restaurant Association last night at an organization meeting held at the Chamber of Commerce building.

Ed Lindsey was elected first vice president, and O. C. Jensen was named second vice president. A board of directors was elected as follows: Frank Gordy, L. Sacks, Harold Hagen, T. N. Routson, C. D. Harris, C. A. McKown, Harry Brown, Jesse D. Walton, S. Yoshinuma, and L. R. Lee. This body is to meet today for the selection of an executive secretary for the organization.

Purposes of the new organization were listed as follows: to keep close supervision of state, county and city legislation with regard to wine and beer licenses, other wine and beer legislation, sanitation laws, and general operations of restaurants; to promote legislation favorable to restaurant operators; to oppose legislation unfavorable to them; to oppose increases in business licenses; to safeguard owners' interests in case of passage of a "little NRA," and to cooperate with the national association for furthering the interests of the restaurant industry in the United States.

The group adopted a constitution, setting dues of $10 per year, and arranged for prompt contacting of all Atlanta restaurant operators for enlistment in the organization.

JACK L. TURNER HELD BY VIRGINIA OFFICERS

Jack L. Turner, native Atlanta barber, who police say has a penchant for robbing city and county offices, and who is wanted here for the burglary of the offices of Dr. C. A. Constantine, at 19 1-2 Peachtree street in March, 1936, was arrested yesterday in Clifton Forge, Va., accused of robbing the city treasurer's office.

He is also wanted in Greenville, S. C., in connection with a robbery at the Greenwood county courthouse. Records here revealed he jumped $300 bond on the burglary charge.

Sister of Hunted Man Drops From Sight

Mrs. Lillian Turner Manders, 17-year-old bride of a month, sister of Chester Turner, dropped from view. Police speculated that she may have joined her brother. Her family says she would not have done so.

17-Year-Old Bride, Turner's Sister, Is Reported Missing From Home

The mysterious disappearance Tuesday of Mrs. Lillian Turner Manders, 17-year-old bride of a few weeks and sister of the notorious Turner brothers, claimed the attention of police yesterday.

Mrs. Manders, the wife of Leroy Manders, 17, has not been seen since she left her home in Hapeville, to go to work at a shirt factory at 180 Trinity avenue.

According to Detective Leo Nahlik, assigned to the investigation, the young bride was last seen by her husband, who took her to the street car line early Tuesday morning. She failed to arrive at work, and a cross word.

"She couldn't have done that," sobbed Lillian's mother yesterday at her home on Waters road, Hapeville. "She was so foolish over her husband. I don't think they had even had a cross word."

"Chester wouldn't have asked her to do anything like that," she said. "He loved her too."

Mrs. Manders is a blue-eyed blonde, about five feet three inches tall and weighing about 115 pounds.

will look well on the already decorated envelopes. I was shown behind the scenes at the postoffice, and watched money orders being made out in rupees—a coin out of books to me. Near-by turbaned postmen sorted mail. Karachi is an important air mail center and will become more so as schedules and connections are bettered by air lines around the world.

I found I had a friend here when I landed yesterday—Count De Sibour had flown in his own plane from Delhi to oversee the Standard Oil fueling arrangements.

Perfect Service. So far the service in pre-arranged suppers has been unconditionally perfect. Everywhere I have come down, big drums painted with my name have been patiently waiting. Here, a large box from Pratt & Whitney containing engine spares also waited. So far, there have been no major troubles, only little things. Little things are hard to get too. Differences in size of the threads and screws, for instance, make substitutions impossible. Perhaps aviation will force international agreement in engineering as well as in other things.

Every time I drive past the airport I notice signs which warn the public to keep away. In contrast to the United States, there seems to be no parking place for cars. No attempt is made to "sell" aviation. Every facility is put at the flyer's disposal, however.

Imperial Airways mechanics have worked all day checking my plane and Group Captain Henderson, of the Royal Air Force, sent two of his expert instrument men to make whatever adjustments I might need. All seems ready to hop off as the sun comes up tomorrow. The meteorologist has practically guaranteed a following wind.

MRS. GEORGE A. LEIPER DIES IN SOUTH CAROLINA

Mrs. George A. Leiper, 78, mother of Mrs. K. A. Quarterman, of 152 Westminster drive, died yesterday morning at the home of another daughter, Mrs. Jennings Foster, at Summerville, S. C.

Mrs. Leiper was a member of the United Daughters of the Confederacy, Colonial Dames, Daughters of the American Revolution and the Presbyterian church. She was a native of Tennessee, and lived for many years at Little Rock, Ark.

Funeral services will be held today in Summerville.

BLUM FACES FIGHT ON FINANCE ISSUE

Support of Senate Necessary for Measure To Give Cabinet Control.

PARIS, June 16.—(AP)—Premier Leon Blum prepared today for a stiff battle with the senate finance committee tomorrow over his government's demand for free hand to pull France out of the financial doldrums.

Th socialist premier's friends said he expects committee approval and a small majority from the upper house for his bill to permit the cabinet to govern French finance by decree.

The chamber of deputies approved the measure in the early morning hours by vote of 346 to 247, ending the most severe crisis in the year-old history of Premier Blum's People's Front coalition government.

not consider the transfer until Mrs. Norton makes a decision.

Because of the importance of the legislation before the labor committee there are reasons to believe house Democratic leaders may take a hand in the selection of a new chairman. Mrs. Norton, due to the summer on her time in running the affairs of the District of Columbia committee, has been permitted to give little attention to the labor committee.

She has sat in on few of the meetings for the past two years and has attended none of the current wage-hour bill hearings.

Better Suited. Under the circumstances house leaders are known to feel that the Georgia congressman, who has taken an active part in labor committee matters, is better equipped to take over the chairmanship and the subsequent task of steering through the house whatever legislation is reported this session.

Nothing is likely to be done until after the return of members from Mr. Connery's funeral, which will take place in his native state later, in the week. Then majority leaders may be expected to confer quietly on the situation. Both Mrs. Norton and Representative Ramspeck have been named as members of the congressional funeral party accompanying the late member of Massachusetts.

If Representative Ramspeck gives up his present civil service chairmanship he will do so reluctantly, having served as head of the body actively for the past year.

At present the south has only one member on the labor committee besides Mr. Ramspeck. The second is Representative Albert Thomas, of Texas. This will be one of the inducements for him to accept the chairmanship if the opportunity arises, many of his colleagues feeling that importance of the pending wage-hour legislation to the southern area makes it desirable for him to serve as head of the body.

E. A. HARBIN, 73, DIES AT RESIDENCE HERE

Central Section Pioneer Was Gwinnett Native.

E. A. (Uncle Alex) Harbin, 73, Fulton county pioneer and leading member of the Central Christian church, died last night at the residence on Harbin road, in the Central section of Atlanta, between Ben Hill and Fort McPherson.

Mr. Harbin had lived in the same house 24 years, and Harbin road was named for him. He was active in building up the Central community. He was a native of Gwinnett county.

Surviving are his wife; two daughters, Mrs. E. W. Tidwell, and Mrs. F. M. Lanier, and five sons, W. P., W. L., E. J., O. T. and V. J. Harbin. Funeral arrangements will be announced by Howard L. Carmichael.

Price of Meat Will Go Higher, Help Cattleman

Mrs. Atlanta Housewife is paying between 4 and 5 cents a pound more for beef and about 6 cents a pound more for pork than she did several months ago, it was revealed yesterday by one of the largest distributors of meat in the city.

The trend will continue toward still higher prices, an official who declined to be quoted declared, and as a result higher prices will be paid Georgia cattlemen for their stock.

"The increases are due," the official said, "to lack of supply. The midwestern drought and the resultant shortage in feed crops has something to do with the advance, but the action of the feeders affects the prices most, and there are not as many hogs and cattle as there were a year ago."

Georgia cattlemen were not affected by the drought, it was said. "The demand for red meat is strong and with the limited supply all indications point to considerably higher prices," another meat packer reported.

It was pointed out that Georgia's meat grades compare favorably with any in the nation, but that the best quality stock is marketed from Georgia producers in the winter.

Veal, lamb and fish were reported by one large distributor as the best meat "buys" under current market conditions.

SOCIAL SECURITY EXEMPTION ASKED

would virtually destroy the industry which, during recent years of the depression, has furnished part-time employment to approximately 15,000 women in five or six counties in northwest Georgia. This industry also has brought in from $1,500,000 to $3,000,000 annually to that section.

Method of Procedure. "The universal practice in the industry is for manufacturers to send out cloth and spreads to what are principally farm homes, where the cloth is made into bedspreads by women members of a family during their leisure moments. They receive so much for each completed spread. Often times four or five members of the family work on the same spread, and sometimes work on the same day on spreads for different manufacturers. For this reason it is impossible to keep the time of each worker or segregate the portion of price of each spread which each has earned. This would be necessary in order to levy social security taxes."

According to Mr. Tarver, there undoubtedly are many influences at work to abolish home work entirely in the bedspread industry.

WHY TRAVEL BY RAILROAD?

SAFETY

Let one examine the current daily papers and figure, each for him or herself, the comparative safety between train travel and transportation by any other method.

COMFORT

Perfect weather conditions—and complete cleanliness and quiet—are now available on all important N.C. & St. L. trains. All regular Pullmans and diners on the N.C. & St. L. are now fully air-conditioned. This added comfort in Pullman cars costs the N.C. & St. L. (in addition to what the Pullman Company spends) about $26,700.00 per year. By about the middle of July, thirty-one N.C. & St. L. coaches (in addition to Pullmans) will be fully air-conditioned. Between July 1, 1934, and July 20, 1937, the N.C. & St. L. will have spent $353,375.92 in air-conditioning and modernizing its all-steel passenger equipment—and, in addition, it will have spent about $9,000.00 on facilities in terminals used in connection with air-conditioning.

SPEED

Main line trains operate on fast regular schedules.

ECONOMY

In the face of improvements to its passenger equipment, averaging $11,399.22 per car, and rapidly rising taxes and expenses, passenger fares in day coaches continue at one and one-half cents per mile; varying from two to three cents per mile in Pullmans. Can one operate a private automobile as cheaply, comfortably, or safely?

WALLACE PREDICTS DECLINE OF PRICES ON FARM PRODUCTS

Bumper Crops, He Believes,
May Prompt Demand for Surplus Storage.

WASHINGTON, June 16.—(AP)—Predictions that the large crops in prospect this year may bring lower prices on farm products came today from Secretary Wallace and Edward A. O'Neal, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation.

The secretary of agriculture said at a press conference that the price declines, in turn, might prompt farm groups to demand that surplus yields be stored under some government system.

He added that a government loan, on surplus wheat or any other major crop probably would be impossible without some production control.

Wallace declared his "ever-normal granary" proposal, under which the government would lend money on stored surpluses and exercise crop control if necessary to prevent the stored supplies from becoming excessive, is needed now but that legislation for it appears doomed at this session of congress.

In a prepared statement, O'Neal announced dissatisfaction with the decision of Democratic congressional leaders yesterday to defer action this session on the "ever-normal granary" and other provisions of the farm federation's

Hartsfield's Office Gets Polar Touch

A fine, snow-white bear skin rug graced the floor of Mayor Hartsfield's office yesterday, the gift of the parks department.

It was the skin of Madge, the last of the zoo's polar bears, who died recently of heart break and heat. She was the mate of Jerry, the bear who died a year ago and whose skin now reposes in the form of a rug on the office of George I. Simons, parks manager. Together in life, the two bearskin rugs are now separated by the space of four floors in the city hall.

Parks officials plan to buy kangaroos to replace Jerry and Madge because polar bears die young in this climate.

Opening of $2,000,000 Locks, Dam Slated for June 26 Near Augusta

High Government Officials Will Participate in Ceremonies at New Savannah, Site of Huge Concrete and Steel Structure.

AUGUSTA, Ga., June 16.—Visitors from eastern Georgia and western Carolina will come to Augusta Saturday, June 26, for the formal opening of the $2,000,000 locks and dam at New Savannah Bluff, built by the federal government to give this city a six-foot year-round channel to the sea.

Coming to participate in the celebration will be a number of high government officials, including the following: Major General T. Q. Ashburn, president of the Inland Waterways Corporation; Major General E. M. Markham, chief of the board of United States army engineers; Senators George and Russell, of Georgia, and Byrnes, of South Carolina; Congressman Brown, of the tenth Georgia district, and Taylor of the third South Carolina district, and Governors Johnston, of South Carolina, and Rivers, of Georgia.

At 4 p. m., 150 or more visitors will leave by boats from the municipal wharf. Upon reaching New Savannah at 6 p. m., the procession of boats, bedecked in gala colors, will pass through the locks to the strains of martial music by the Richmond Academy band. Roads to the locks and dam will be clearly marked for the convenience of visitors.

The giant concrete and steel structure which spans the river can create a maximum depth of 14 feet between Augusta and New Savannah. The entire works is 500 feet wide. The locks chamber is 56 feet wide and 400 feet long, and the depth of water in it can be varied from 10 to 34 1-2 feet. The dam has six concrete piers and five steel spillway gates each 80 feet wide and 15 feet deep. The machinery is operated by electricity and hydraulic power.

Rush To File Suits Keeps Lawyers Busy

Lawyers had an increase in business Tuesday, the Fulton superior court clerk's office revealed yesterday when it was announced 103 lawsuits had been filed on the final return day for the July term.

This figure represents 14 more suits than were filed on the final return day for the May term of court.

A total of 841, which is not a record, suits were filed for the July term.

NOVEL-WRITING PAIR REVISIT ATLANTA HOME

Mr. and Mrs. Allan Taylor, former Atlanta residents who have collaborated on the writing of several popular novels, are back in the city this week for a visit.

Mr. Taylor, once an Atlanta newspaperman, is now on the staff of a magazine in New York city. He and Mrs. Taylor are stopping here on the way north from a visit to New Orleans and Natchez.

They are co-authors of "Spaniard's Mark" and "Linn Dickson, Confederate," both novels with southern settings, and "Drums in the Forest," a Canadian story.

BUFFET OPERATOR GIVEN COURT ORDER

McKown May Sell Wine Until Hearing, Pomeroy Directs.

C. A. McKown, operator of the West Side Buffet on Peoples street, yesterday obtained a temporary restraining order in Fulton superior court preventing city authorities from interfering with the sale of wine at his shop.

The petition, based on a recent state supreme court decision which gave the city the right to revoke McKown's beer license but not his wine permit, was temporarily granted by Judge E. E. Pomeroy, who set the hearing for June 19.

Last year the city revoked McKown's beer and wine license and the superior court held they had that privilege. On appeal to the supreme court, it was decided the city had only the authority to cancel the beer license and that the petitioner was entitled to sell wine.

The petition filed yesterday alleges the city will not grant the operator a 1937 wine license and that the officers on the beat have warned him to clear out his wine stock or face arrest. McKown is represented by Attorney Noah J. Stone.

MRS. ELLEN WOOD DIES IN ATLANTA

West Virginia Resident on Visit to Daughter.

Mrs. Ellen Wood, mother of Mrs. Fred B. Wilson, died yesterday morning at the home of Mrs. Wilson, 814 Lullwater road, N. E.

Mrs. Wood, who lived in Huntington, W. Va., was visiting Mrs. Wilson when she was taken ill. Besides Mrs. Wilson, she is survived by three other daughters, Mrs. Tracy Levee, of Niagara Falls, N. Y.; Mrs. G. P. Grogan and Mrs. Alberta Mead, both of Huntington, and a son, Warren Wood, also of Huntington.

Funeral services and burial will be in Huntington, where the body was taken yesterday under direction of H. M. Patterson & Son.

MRS. J. D. FINCHER DIES IN EAST POINT

Funeral Services Will Be Held Today.

Mrs. J. D. Fincher, long-time resident of Atlanta and a prominent member of the South Side Baptist church, died Tuesday night at the home of her daughter, Mrs. John Peacock, of Stone road, East Point.

Mrs. Fincher was the wife of the late J. D. Fincher, a member of the Atlanta police department 30 years, who died 14 years ago. She was 70. She had been ill several months.

Besides Mrs. Peacock, surviving are two sons, John W. Fincher and H. D. Fincher; four other daughters, Mrs. George Henderson, Mrs. L. R. Stone, Miss Georgia Fincher and Mrs. N. F. Evans; 13 grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon at the chapel of Howard L. Carmichael, with the Revs. Joe Crumbley and J. H. Gresham officiating. Burial will be in Greenwood cemetery.

ZACH ARNOLD BECOMES RIVERS' CAPITOL AIDE

Zach Arnold, of Fort Gaines, vice chairman of the state Democratic executive committee, became a member of Governor Rivers' secretarial staff yesterday.

Arnold, who handled the party's campaign headquarters in the recent drive for adoption of 26 constitutional amendments, will have quarters in the reception room outside the Governor's private office.

His job will be that of "helping handle business in the outside office," other attaches of the office said.

HELP KIDNEYS PASS 3 LBS. A DAY

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 million of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. Most people pass about 8 pints a day or about 5 pounds of waste. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning show the kidneys are doing something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

An excess of acids or poisons in your blood, which is due to functional kidney disease, may be the cause of nagging backache, rheumatic pains, lumbago, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up at night, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your doctor about Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the millions of kidneys that are out of balance waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

ACUTE NEED EXISTS FOR RAIN IN STATE

Weather Conditions Reported Generally Favorable in Southern Part of Georgia.

An "acute" need for rain in a large part of the state was cited yesterday in the Atlanta Weather Bureau's weekly synopsis of weather and crop conditions in Georgia.

Meteorologist G. W. Mindling said "most middle and northern counties need rain," but in the southern third of the state "weather conditions were quite generally favorable for crops."

Potato Vines Die. Dry weather, he reported, has caused Irish potato vines near Bremen and Clarksville to die prematurely and has delayed transplanting of sweet potatoes in some northern and middle counties.

Lack of rain, he said, has also affected late peaches, peanuts and cotton in some areas.

He said, however, "The general

G. M. A. IS AWARDED HONOR SCHOOL RANK

Institution Maintains Rating With War Department Held Since 1923.

Honor school rating has been conferred again on Georgia Military Academy, school authorities were informed yesterday by the United States War Department, ranking the institution with some 15 or 20 others in the nation. G. M. A. has been rated an honor school since 1923.

The honor graduate of each of these schools selected from the 52 in the nation having junior reserve officers' training corps is nominated for West Point and if a vacancy exists, the nominee is admitted without further preliminaries. Two G. M. A. graduates are now in West Point on this privilege.

The academy rifle team won first place in the army national contest for military schools this year.

LA GRANGE BOMB CLUE IS SOUGHT BY POLICE

LAGRANGE, Ga., June 16.—LaGrange police today sought a solution of the mystery involving discovery of a broken window pane and a home-made, unfired bomb lying with charred fuse on the floor of a barber shop here.

The bomb apparently was constructed by an expert who used every precaution, both in the manufacture of the missile and in keeping its surface free of fingerprints. Built in a quart syrup can, in the top of which was bored a small hole for inserting a fuse, the bomb was said to contain a mixture of gasoline and tar, indicating its purpose was incendiary.

THIRD BANK APPLIES FOR GEORGIA CHARTER

R. E. Gormley, state superintendent of banks, announced yesterday the LaGrange National Bank had filed a petition with the secretary of state for a charter as a state bank.

Gormley said that under the state charter the bank would change its name to the Citizens & Southern Bank of LaGrange. It is an affiliate of the Citizens & Southern Bank, he said.

The superintendent said this was the third bank this year to relinquish its national bank charter and become a state bank.

He said the other two were the First State Bank of Blakely, formerly the First National Bank of Blakely; and the Pelham Banking Company, formerly the First National Bank of Pelham.

THERE'S a lot more in this picture than meets the eye, though the eye has plenty to sparkle about in the stunning style of this spirited Buick car.

What you don't see here is the lift that's yours when you touch off the flashing power of Buick's valve-in-head straight-eight engine and go streaming off across the map.

What you don't see is the solid, steady feel of Buick—the firm stability that holds you on the line without weave or sway or wander on straightaways or on the curves.

What you don't see is the assurance you'll know once you step on Buick's tiptoe brakes and see how surely and safely they make you master of its power.

We can't picture here the security that's yours in a body of steel-fused-to-steel—with floor, roof, side panels, cowl all welded into one stout unit of protective metal.

And only time can tell you how big is your money's worth in Buick—all steel and two yards wide, a big package that's your one best bet of the field when you add the superb action that gives its metals life.

All we can do is show you how a Buick looks—and handsome as this gallant traveler is, remind you that its good looks are literally the least of what it has to offer.

There's still time to make this a summer long to be happily remembered—if you'll go try a Buick now.

Brooks-Hunt Plans Announced Today

Miss Mary Elizabeth Brooks has selected June 21, the forty-sixth anniversary of her mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Brooks, as the date of her marriage to Joseph Tharon Hunt Jr. The ceremony will be performed by the Rev. Father John Emmerth at the Sacred Heart church at 10 o'clock in the morning, with Billy Stoddard Jr., nephew of the bride-elect, serving the mass.

Miss Martha Hunt, sister of the groom-elect, and Mrs. Sam Bobbitt, of Miami, will act as bridesmaids, with Miss Nora Bloodworth as maid of honor and Mrs. Russell Striplin as matron of honor. Little Anne Nicholson and Dickie Brooks, niece and nephew of the bride-elect, will be flower girl and ring-bearer.

Mr. Hunt has chosen Claud Mills for best man, with his brother, Arthur Hunt, and brother of the bride-elect, Richard Brooks, and Pete Buckley, as groomsmen. The ushers will be Sam Bobbitt, of Miami, and E. J. Nicholson. The bride-elect will be given in marriage by her father, W. W. Brooks.

Mrs. Martha E. Ryckley gave a miscellaneous shower recently for Miss Brooks. Mrs. C. W. Stoddard, sister of the bride-elect, will entertain with a trousseau tea at her home, 1261 Stillwood drive, N. E., on June 19, and a buffet supper will follow the wedding rehearsal on June 20 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Brooks, 1269 Hardee street, N. E.

Following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Brooks will entertain the members of the wedding party with a breakfast, and the couple will leave immediately on their honeymoon, visiting New York, Niagara Falls and Canada. Upon their return in July they will reside at 990 Greenwood avenue, northeast.

Miss West Weds Frank B. Baldwin

The marriage of Miss Dorothy Mae West and Frank B. Baldwin was solemnized Tuesday evening at the home of the Rev. Harold Shields, 27 Boulevard Granada, pastor of Gordon Street Presbyterian church, in the presence of the immediate families.

Attending the couple were the bride's sister and brother, Mr. and Mrs. Howard F. West. Mrs. West wore figured beanie sheer. Her flowers were gardenias.

The bride wore navy tucked chiffon, made along tailored lines. She wore blue patent leather accessories. Completing her costume was a matching turban of tulle. The bride's flowers were sweetheart roses and valley lilies.

The couple left for a two-week stay at New York, Washington and Philadelphia, and upon their return they will reside at 500 East Ontario street in West End Park.

The bride is the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred G. West and the sister of Howard F. West and Miss Mildred West. She attended Commercial High school.

Mr. Baldwin is the son of Mrs. Lucia B. Baldwin and the late Frank B. Baldwin Sr. His only sister is Mrs. L. C. Holt, of Norfolk, Va. He was educated in the Atlanta public schools and later graduated from Tech High school. He is associated with the Georgia Power Company.

Farewell Reception.

A farewell reception and open house was held at the home of Mrs. Hurline Wilson at 219 North avenue, N. E. Sunday, in honor of her mother, Mrs. Mary L. Lawson, of Birmingham, who leaves soon for an extended stay in Maine. Assisted in entertaining by Mrs. Dora Owen and Mrs. Wanda Mitchell.

Guests were Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Hicks, Mr. and Mrs. C. J. McCurdy, Miss Blondine McCurdy, Mrs. Marie Fumlin, Mrs. Mae Holt, Mrs. J. E. White, H. C. Rouse, Mrs. W. B. Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. Buran Smith, Mrs. C. J. Dean, Miss Mary Baker, Mrs. J. E. Hunt, Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Daniel and Mrs. J. B. Merrill.

Fat Girls Get The Go-By—Slim Girls Win Men

Less Fat The Easy Way—Without Starvation Diets, or Back-Breaking, Bending and Rolling Exercises.

Here's a way to get rid of ugly fat that works hand in hand with Nature. Millions of people are losing millions of pounds of flabby flesh and getting back slender figures, without the need of starvation diets or back-breaking exercises.

Medical science has discovered that one of the causes of too much fat lies in a little gland. It is the duty of this tiny gland to make about one drop and a half every day of a vital fluid. This helps the body "burn" up food and excess fatty tissues just as a good draft of air helps the furnace to burn up coal without forming "clinkers". If this little gland doesn't make this drop and a half of fluid every 24 hours, many people take on ugly fat.

Doctors correct this condition by feeding this little gland the substance it lacks—and Marmola Prescription Tablets are based on this same method. Millions are using them with success. They are prepared by a famous medical laboratory. Their formula is published in every package so you know what you are taking.

So don't waste time and money with starvation diets or back-breaking exercises. Go to your druggist today and get a box of Marmola. Try this simple, easy way to get rid of excess fat.

Miss Virginia Courts Weds Mr. Wayne at Home Service

MR. AND MRS. TUCKER WAYNE.

Miss Virginia Belle Courts, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard W. Courts, became the bride of William Tucker Wayne last evening at the home of her parents on Cherokee road. Dr. Ashby Jones performed the ceremony at 7:30 o'clock and the nuptials were listed among the most important and outstanding on the summer social calendar due to the prominence of the two families.

The ceremony was performed in the living room of the home where an improvised altar was erected in front of the fireplace which was banked with palms, ferns and pedestal baskets filled with lilies. Two large urns filled with lilies were placed on either end of the mantel and flanking either side of the decorations of greenery were seven-branched cathedral candelabra holding burning tapers.

Little Elaine Courts, niece of the bride, was the flower girl and only attendant. She wore a dainty model of pink lace over pink satin and carried a nosegay of pink roses and pink sweet peas.

Miss Courts entered the living room with her father, by whom she was given in marriage, and was met at the altar by the groom and his brother, Clifford Wayne, who acted as best man. Her radiant blond beauty was never more enhanced than in her bridal gown of white satin made along becoming princess lines. The long sleeves were an attractive feature and the basque waist was marked by deep bertha of real lace which was part of the bride's mother's wedding dress worn at her marriage in Louisville, Ky. The long skirt widened in the back to form a train over which fell the graceful folds of the long tulle veil which featured a tiny row of shirring around the edge. The veil hung from a shirred cap of tulle which was caught on either side of the bride's brown hair by clusters of orange blossoms. Her only ornament was a platinum and diamond brooch, the gift of her mother. Her flowers were a shower bouquet of orchids shading from pink to white and showered with lilies of the valley.

Mrs. Richard Courts, mother of the bride, was handsomely gowned in an imported model of delicate pink lace fashioned along simple but becoming lines. Her flowers were deep purple orchids.

After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Courts entertained several hundred members of fashionable society at an elaborate el fresco reception at Brookhaven, the Capital City Country Club, for their daughter and Mrs. Wayne.

The receiving line stood on the terrace of the club before a background of rich greenery consisting of palms, ferns and tall pedestal baskets filled with summer garden flowers. Receiving with the hosts and the bride and groom were Mr. and Mrs. Malon Courts, Miss Virginia Wayne, sister of the groom, and Richard Courts Jr., brother of the bride.

The reception rooms of the spacious club were beautifully decorated with banks of palms and ferns and tall pedestal baskets filled with varicolored summer garden flowers. On the console tables were baskets filled with swainsons and lilies of the valley. The bride's table was in green and white and was centered with an elaborately embossed bride's cake

Moonlight Recital Planned for Charity

At a fresco event of Friday evening will be the moonlight recital to be given under direction of Hugh Hodgson in the gardens of Mrs. Arthur Tufts' home in Druid Hills near Emory University at 8:30 o'clock. In event of rain the recital will be held inside Mrs. Tufts' home. Proceeds from the event will be used for charity work sponsored by the Women's Auxiliary of St. Luke's Episcopal church. Reservations for the event may be made by phoning Mrs. Edgar Neely, Hemlock 1553, or Mrs. Hal Davidson, Hemlock 8717.

Members of St. Luke's choir, assisted by Mrs. Priscilla Loehner, cellist, will be presented in a program selected by Mr. Hodgson.

Mrs. Loehner will give a group of compositions for 'cello by French composers.

Soloists of St. Luke's choir are: Minna Hecker, soprano; Ruby Brown, contralto; C. E. Drummond Jr., tenor; Coleman Kimbro, baritone.

Dr. Brown Host To Cuban Visitors

Dr. George Brown was host last evening at a beautifully appointed dinner at his home on Fourteenth street in compliment to a group of prominent Cuban visitors. The honor guests were Dr. Wilfredo Albanes Pena, vice president of the senate of Cuba; Mrs. Albanes, their lovely young daughter, Miss Lilia Albanes, and their son, Wilfredo Albanes Jr. Dr. Brown is the representative of the Cuban Tourist Commission here.

The table was centered with a graceful arrangement of summer garden flowers. Completing the party were Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Fernandes, who formerly resided in Cuba.

Dr. Albanes and his family are spending a month in Atlanta before going to Washington, D. C. for a visit. Mr. Albanes Jr. is a student at Emory University summer school and will continue his studies there in the fall. These Cuban visitors are being extensively entertained during their stay in the city.

Women Voters Sponsor Program.

Mrs. Phillip Jackson, of the board of the Atlanta League of Women Voters, sponsors an educational program Friday at the home of Mrs. Bond Almand, 207 Westminister drive, at 11 o'clock. Mrs. Ruth Hinman Carter will review the books, "We Are Not Alone," by James Hilton, and "Neighbor in the Sky," by Gladys Hastings Carroll, and the Pulitzer prize play, "You Can't Take It With You," by Kaufman and Hart.

During June the league offers a prize of $5 in the membership contest ending on July 6. Mrs. J. O. Sanders, former president of the league, will attend the review and speak on league activities. Members of the league and friends are invited and luncheon will be served. Call Mrs. Phillip Jackson, Cherokee 1778, or Mrs. Bond Almand, Hemlock 0088-W, for reservations.

Guests were Misses Betty Jean Bell, Frances Nowles, Frances Bond, Frances Bradford, Virginia Bradford, Johnny Bryant, Pat Colston, Betty Cook, Richard Cook, Mary Chapman, Jean Dodson, Carl

Williams-Tucker Rites Solemnized At Presbyterian Church Ceremony

The Associate Reformed Presbyterian church formed the setting for the nuptial ceremony at which Miss Ruth Anne Williams became the bride of Wiley Albert Tucker at 8:30 o'clock last evening. The Rev. S. A. Tinkler, pastor of the church, read the marriage service.

Mrs. Susie Reese Kennedy, organist, presented a musical program while the wedding guests assembled. Stately calla lilies filled the brass altar vases in the church, the lilies standing in relief against a rich backdrop of ferns and palms which massed the rear of the pulpit and chancel. Flanking either side of the altar were floribund standards topped with seven-branched cathedral candelabra in which burned white waxen tapers. The pews reserved for members of the families were marked with tall sheaves of calla lilies.

Acting as ushers and groomsmen were C. M. Vir- R. L. Manley, J. T. Wheeler and Baxter Rains. Dana Creel, of New York, served as best man for Mr. Tucker. The lovely bride entered the church with her father, L. O. Williams, who gave her in marriage. Her attendants were Miss Mary Duncan, maid of honor; Miss Dorothy Aiken and Mrs. Baxter Rains bridesmaids. Little Misses Carol Hale and Mary Jane Bigham were the flower girls.

The bride's attendants were gowned in a'ke in filmy net dresses, the bottom of the long, full skirts being appliqued with taffeta petals in artistic design. In their hair they wore small wreaths of roses to match the color of their gowns. Miss Duncan wearing Nile green. Miss Aiken wearing cerulean blue and Mrs. Rains wearing rose pink. The maid of honor carried pink roses showered with valley lilies.

Junior Ellington, Margaret Farmer, Juanita Fowler, Floyd Gossett, Howard Gossett, Warren Harper, James Jones, Billy Kelley, Marjorie Kelley, Marion Knight, Marguerite Lance, Larry Nix, Harold Phillips, Betty Jean Pinson, Nancy Reed, Clarence Sessions, Earl Strother, Douglas Welch, Sue White, Vivian Williamson and Buddy Young.

and the bridesmaids' bouquets were of pink roses tied with pink tulle. The flower girls wore dainty frocks of white net, fashioned with long skirts. They carried old-fashioned nosegays of summer garden flowers.

Ivory-toned satin fashioned the bride's becoming toilette, the gown featuring a high neckline caught with an antique pearl pin, long satin sleeves, and princess lines which accentuated her slender gracefulness. Her tulle veil fell from a coronet of pearls to cover the shimmering length of her long satin train, and she carried a bridal bouquet of white roses showered with valley lilies.

The bride's mother, Mrs. L. O. Williams, chose for the occasion a gown of pale blue lace, offset with a cluster of pink rosebuds and valley lilies. Mrs. J. Ross Tucker, the bridegroom's mother, wore burgundy lace and a spray of gardenias.

Mr. Tucker and his bride left for a motor trip to the Highlands Country Club, Highlands, N. C. Later they will tour the Carolinas and Virginia. Upon their return to the city they will take possession of their apartment at 10 Sheridan drive. Mrs. Tucker traveled in a jacket suit of dusty pink crepe, smartly embroidered with brown wool and worn with matching accessories.

GEORGIANS PREPARE MELON RATE BRIEFS

Attorneys for the Georgia Public Service Commission were busy yesterday preparing briefs for the Interstate Commerce Commission in an appeal for lower freight rates on watermelons.

The briefs must be filed by July 1, with prospects, Chairman Jud P. Wilhoit said, the ICC will not make a ruling in time to affect rates on melon shipments this year.

The case was instituted by the Georgia commission, with Florida and South Carolina later intervening in the litigation.

UNARMED GROCERYMAN NABS BURGLAR SUSPECT

An Atlanta grocer who investigated a noise in his store at 180 Pearl street early yesterday morning captured a burglar suspect by saying, "If you move, I'll kill you." He had no weapon.

The grocer, E. Diamond, saw the suspect forcing a front window. He hid behind a counter until the man entered. Then he spoke from the shadows, "freezing" the suspect until police arrived.

The suspect gave his name as Grady Looney, of a Harold avenue address. He was charged with suspicion of burglary.

Miss Brookshire Weds Mr. Orr

The marriage of Miss Vera Brookshire, of Atlanta and Grayson, to Charles Thomas Orr, of Buford, was solemnized yesterday at noon by Dr. W. H. Faust in his study, in the presence of the immediate families and a few close friends.

The bride wore a white crepe model and her flowers were bride's roses and valley lilies.

After the ceremony an informal reception was held, after which the bride and groom left by motor for a wedding trip to Florida. For traveling the bride wore a smart suit of navy sheer with matching accessories. Upon their return they will reside in Lawrenceville, where the groom is prominently connected in business.

Mrs. Orr is the daughter of Rev. and Mrs. J. B. Brookshire, of Grayson. She has hosts of friends in Atlanta, where she has made her home for the past year. She received her academic education at Besse Tift College and continued in music and voice at the Atlanta Conservatory of Music.

College Park Mayor Honored by U. D. C.

The Crawford W. Long Chapter, U. D. C., met recently with Mesdames W. T. Duncan and Mamie D. Reed. The president, Mrs. A. H. Strickland, presided, assisted by Mrs. Mae R. Fricks, past president.

Invocation was offered by G. G. Strange. The chapter bestowed a cross of military service upon the Honorable George W. Harris, mayor of College Park. Mr. Harris was called out of the city on business, and in his absence the cross was presented to Mrs. Harris, president of the American Legion Auxiliary, Lyle Brewster Unit No. 50, and also fifth district secretary.

J. C. Hambright, past commander, brought greetings from Lyle Brewster Post No. 50 of the American Legion, of which Mr. Harris is a member. Mr. Harris served 10 months overseas with the 106th Engineering Corps of the 31st division, in the World War. He was associated with the Intrastate Commerce commission at the beginning of the war, was among the first to volunteer for service, and for his valiant service was given the commission of major.

The daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Harris, Misses Tosca and Wanda Harris, gave readings depicting the girlhood of the old south. A piano solo by Mrs. Tosca Harris was also enjoyed.

At the close of the exercises many of the chapter members and guests motored to Fairburn to attend the unveiling of a marker commemorating the unfurling of the first Confederate flag in Georgia.

Miss Thomas Becomes Bride Of Dr. Burnett at Church Rites

Miss Mary Louise Thomas, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wynnton T. Thomas, became the bride of Dr. Gordon Leslie Burnett last evening at the College Park Baptist church. Dr. James L. Baggett, the pastor, performed the ceremony at 8:30 o'clock in the presence of a large assemblage of relatives and friends of the young couple.

The interior of the church was beautifully decorated for the ceremony. The altar was arranged with masses of palms centered with an arch of lacy ferns under which was placed a large basket filled with calla lilies. On either side were 22-branched cathedral candelabra holding burning tapers, flanked by baskets of calla lilies.

Prior to and during the ceremony a program of nuptial music was rendered by Mrs. Robert S. Rosser and Clarence Wall, vocalists, accompanied by Mrs. Clarence Wall and Miss Ethel Gibson. The ushers were Major Robert S. Rosser, Dr. Kinsey E. Foster, Wallace E. Sitton and Alonzo Richardson. The flower girl, she wore a white net over satin and carried lilies of the valley.

The bridesmaids were Misses Carolyn McClary, Marie Bazemore, Margaret Fitzgerald and Dorothy Hale and the junior bridesmaids were Misses Lillouise Hatchell, Grace Timms and Helen Logino. The groom's attendants were Dr. H. M. Cole, Dr. W. B. Davis, Dr. W. L. Smith and Charles P. Flowers.

The bridesmaids were gowned alike in becoming models of peach silk net fashioned with long ruffled skirts. They wore veils the same shade as their dresses and were held in place by a cluster of flowers worn in coronet style. Miss Thomas and Mrs. Thomas wore the same style dresses in aquamarine. The junior bridesmaids wore models of aquamarine net fashioned with the drop shoulder effect and carried miniature bouquets of talisman roses and delphinium.

Entering with her father, Wynnton T. Thomas, by whom she was given in marriage, the bride was met at the altar by the bridegroom and Henry G. Matthews Jr., who was best man. Her dainty blonde beauty was further enhanced by her wedding gown of bridal satin shirred in front from the low neckline and worn with a white chantilly lace redingote fashioned with long sleeves coming to a point over her hand. It was completed by a becoming Queen Elizabeth collar and the train of the bride, was gowned in a hand-some gown of periwinkle blue chiffon worn with a lace jacket of matching shades of blue. Her flowers were orchids and lilies of the valley. Mrs. J. G. Burnett, mother of the groom, was becomingly gowned in a peach chiffon model worn with a jacket of the same material. Her flowers were orchids and lilies of the valley.

After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Thomas entertained at a reception at the College Park Woman's Club for their daughter and Dr. Burnett. The bride's table, placed in the lounge was covered with a real lace cloth and was centered with a three-tiered wedding cake. Baskets of pastel shaded summer garden flowers were placed on either side and silver candlesticks held burning tapers. Throughout the clubrooms where the guests assembled quantities of summer garden flowers were used in artistic arrangement as the decorations. Miss Florence Camp kept the bride's book.

Dr. Burnett and his bride left for their wedding trip to points of interest in the west and a tour of Mexico. The bride traveled in a model of navy blue sheer and her flowers were orchids.

Sally Firth Forecasts Wedding Of Popular Couple on Saturday

By Sally Firth.

SALLY FIRTH has the pleasure of sharing with you a most interesting secret. Anne Olive Branch, of Shanghai, China, who so fascinated you when she visited the Philip L'Engles and their attractive daughters, Bess and Margaret, last winter, is not going back to China to live. For on Saturday she will become the bride of Vance Mace in Los Angeles, Cal.

Anne, you will recall, is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. J. R. B. Branch, of Shanghai, her mother having been a native of Macon, Ga. She was here last fall when Bess L'Engle made her formal bow to society and she was a popular figure attending the round of social affairs among the debutante set.

The Saturday wedding, however, is a culmination of a romance which had its beginning on the campus of Wesleyan College in Macon two years ago when the pretty blond bride-elect was a student there. Vance, whose record as a football player on Georgia Tech's Golden Tornado is nationally known, was living in Macon at the time and found many opportunities to visit the college where the fair-haired Anne was enrolled.

After her school days, Anne returned to China, where her parents have resided for many years, and it was not until her return to the States last fall that their romance was continued. Since then Anne has been spending some time in New York with Mrs. Alice Chung, also of China and a lifelong friend of the family, whom Atlantans will recall as a recent visitor here with Mrs. L'Engle. In the meantime, Fate, who shuffles persons and events in a most amazing manner, sent Vance to Los Angeles, where he has established residence. Anne is there now and her mother, who has been in Mexico, is now en route to the west coast city to attend her daughter's marriage. Vance is a native of Savannah and like his bride-elect has many friends here who will be interested in his marriage. They will reside in Los Angeles at 225 North New Hampshire avenue.

SOMETHING unusual in the way of a kitchen shower was given Tuesday by Sara Dobbs for Ellen Fleming, who will become the bride of Henry Bowden on June 30. "Kitchen guessing contests" were won by Mrs. John Mann and Callender Weltner.

The hostess planned a novel feature for presenting the gifts to the honor guest in the way of an old-time "mammy" made of a mop with a dish cloth as her face. Rolling pins hung as her arms while two large floor brushes formed her feet. Egg beaters, can openers, ice picks and other kitchen appliances were arranged on "mammy" who also held a basket filled with other gifts for the bride-elect.

A BEAUTIFUL picture of Dorothy Ramspeck appeared in a recent issue of the Washington Post on a garden page with a group of prominent belles of the national capital's congressional set of society. The picture of Dorothy was made on the steps of her home and presents the lovely young girl in what appears to be a black mouseline de sole afternoon dress trimmed in diagonal strips of white lace. She is holding a large black garden hat with a white lace crown, which adds a picturesque touch to the photograph.

Underneath the picture is the following: "Miss Dorothy Ramspeck, daughter of Representative and Mrs. Robert Ramspeck, of Atlanta, knows the lush gardens of the old south, but also finds those in Washington alluring."

ATLANTANS will be interested to learn that Mr. and Mrs. Homer Hargrave Sr. have returned from their wedding trip to their home in Chicago. The bride is none other than Colleen Moore, who made many friends here when the Young Matrons of the Tallulah Falls school sponsored her famous doll house last winter.

Her friends here will be interested, too, when they learn that little Judy Hargrave, six years old, who accompanied the former movie actress on her trip here is now her stepdaughter. Little Judy has been afforded the privilege of playing in the famous doll house, but her brother, Homer Jr., age 13, has grown out of the stage where the doll house is of great interest. Mr. Hargrave is a well-known Chicago broker and it goes without saying that his lovely bride will turn from her famous doll house to a real job of home making.

Mrs. O. R. Randall and her granddaughter, Miss Nancy Anne Grant, leave today for Minneapolis, Minn., to visit Mrs. Randall's son and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Lamar Perry.

Miss Claire Bullock left yesterday for Albany, Ga., to visit Mrs. Hugh Shackelford the former Miss Marie Camp, of this city.

Mr. and Mrs. Leon Burgin and daughters, of Cheno Valley, Ariz., are visiting relatives here. Mrs. Burgin is the former Miss Betty Comer, of Atlanta.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Calhoun left recently for a visit to New York

Miss McGhee and Mr. MacDonell Wed at Emory University Chapel

The marriage of Miss Virginia Grace McGhee and Robert Candler MacDonell, of Miami, Fla., was solemnized last evening at 8 o'clock at Emory University chapel by Bishop Warren Candler. Preceding the ceremony a program of nuptial music was presented by Miss Catherine Kamper, pianist, and Mrs. J. T. Hutcheson, violinist.

The back of the pulpit was banked with palms interspersed with tall floor baskets filled with pink gladioli. Three five-branched candelabra holding gleaming white tapers were arranged within the chancel rail.

Ushers were Chester L. McGhee, of Richmond, Va., the bride's brother; James B. Buchanan, the groom's uncle; Tigner Thrasher, of Ashburn, and Clyde Harmon.

The bride's twin sister, Mrs. Frank H. Johnson, of Princeton, N. J., was matron of honor. She wore an exquisite gown fashioned of hyacinth blue chiffon over matching silk and carried a bouquet of pastel shaded garden flowers tied with wide pink satin ribbon.

The bridesmaids, Mrs. Robert C. Farley, of Miami, the groom's sister; Mrs. John A. Strausbaugh, another sister of the bride, wore pink marquisette gowns made with puffed sleeves. Their bouquets of garden flowers were bound with hyacinth blue satin ribbon.

Little Miss Mary Helen Strausbaugh, the bride's niece, was flower girl and she wore a dainty frock of pink point d'esprit made floor length. She carried a basket of pink rose petals.

The bride's father, Joseph Llewellyn McGhee, gave her in marriage and the groom was attended by his best man, William T. Hunter. The bride's wedding gown was fashioned of white satin made with long sleeves and train. Her bridal veil of filmy white tulle, which belongs to Mrs. Clyde Harmon, was covered by an exquisite lace veil loaned the bride by her cousin, Mrs. James Henry Downey.

Gainsville, the lace having been in the bride's family for several generations.

After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. McGhee, the bride's parents, entertained at a reception at their home on Clifton road. The hosts were assisted in receiving by Dr. and Mrs. George Nowlan MacDonell, the groom's parents. Mrs. McGhee was attired in blue lace made over flesh-colored silk and her shoulder cluster was formed of tallismans roses. Mrs. MacDonell, the groom's mother, wore aquamarine lace over matching taffeta and her shoulder spray was fashioned of pink roses.

Mr. MacDonell and his bride left in the early evening for a motor trip to North Carolina. They will return to Miami, Fla., to reside. For traveling the bride wore a navy blue printed ensemble with a small dark blue straw hat and other navy accessories.

INSTALLMENT XXIV.

Kittie between groans and sneezes was muttering something about seven thousand dollars and on top of that side bets, and the further fact that he was not made of gold. Fritzle patted his hand tenderly.

"But you're one brick! And no puns intended, Kittie-kins."

"Riding's just a side line with Dixie," Duke said. "His real business is Dunn and Bradstreet!"

"Imagine!" broke in Kittie. "He knew my financial rating before he knew me, even!"

"It's a good thing, Duke, you made that highway robber put the agreement in writing," said Fritzle. "Now let's forget what he wangled out of us. He's the best jockey there is. Lightning will be sure to be in the money, with him up."

"We'll win the money," Duke protested. "She'll win. That's a set-up."

"Don't forget, Duke, that Madison is entering Moon Ray and I hear she has what it takes."

"That's why I feel like a kid on Christmas morning—just let me get a chance at Madison on this!"

"Which means you'll go the limit."

"And then some." He grabbed both of Fritzle's hands and pumped them up and down excitedly. "We're set for the big dough, honey."

"And just what do I get out of this?" Kittie asked plaintively. "You'll get the pleasure of knowing I'm the happiest girl in the world when my horse wins the Hopeful—and you'll get a bride."

She leaned over and kissed him. Kittie beamed.

"Good-morning, folks," it was Rosetta. Her usually smiling face looked worried.

"Anything the matter, Rosie?" asked Duke. "You don't look in holiday mood like the rest of us."

"It's Miss Carol. You know she caught a cold at the races. And she's awful stubborn about it. Won't do a thing I tell her, without a lot of arguing—and not always then. Seems to forget I brought her up—acts as if I didn't know a thing. I'm going now to get some orange juice and put castor oil in it, but like as not she won't take it."

She shook her kinky black head in distress. "Oh, yes, she will," Duke said firmly as he rose from the table. "I'll give it to her. You just hustle the orange juice along. You'll find me in her stateroom. And, Fritzle, I'll be back later, when my duties as a nurse are over."

"Duke is certainly one smart buy," said Kittie, his recurrent jealousy gone for the time. "No wonder you're such a store by him, Fritzle, darling."

"He isn't as smart as he thinks he is."

"What? I thought you thought he knew everything about everything."

"He knows all there is to know about horses and he could write a book on dames—all but one. But he doesn't know one little thing about himself. He hasn't got the sense to realize that he's off to the races over Carol."

"You mean he's in love with her?"

"He is," said Fritzle with authority. "I wonder when he'll wise up to himself."

Carol had never felt so miserable in her life. It was bad enough to have a cold. She came of good healthy stock, as she would have said, and she had lived strength-bringing out-of-door life. When she felt a little less than topnotch, it astonished and angered her. But now, this severe cold was only a small fraction of her discomfort.

She sat propped up in bed in her stateroom, writing a letter. More accurately it might be said she was trying to write a letter. Crumpled wads of paper, with a few lines written on them only to be discarded, were all around her. She found it impossible to concentrate. Thoughts of Duke came between her and what she was trying to write. All reason for her association was ended, now that she had won enough to redeem Brookdale. What—what could she do?

There was a tap on the door. "Who's there?" she cried, a slight trace of annoyance in her voice.

"It's I—Duke," came the answer.

"Just a minute," she cried, crumpling the last sheet of paper on which she had been writing. She was wrapped up in one of the ugliest flannel robes ever sold over any counter. She tore it off and unthinkingly of the cold, jumped out of bed and in her bare feet went to the tiny closet.

"What's the delay?" called Duke. "I've got to get into something."

She answered, as she swung herself into an exquisite negligee of powder blue satin and rose chiffon, and knotted the sash. She glanced in the mirror. Her hair, which was drawn back from her face in a tight, unbecoming knot, she loosened and fluffed into soft curls.

"Come on; make it snappy," said Duke.

"Calm yourself," she called back. A hurried pat-pat of powder, a quick stroke of lipstick and she jumped back into bed. Just as she was about to call to him to come in, she noticed the flannel robe. She shoved it quickly under the covers, patted down the lump it made, sank back in a languid, becoming pose and then told him to come in.

"You don't look awfully sick," he exclaimed when he saw her. He was thinking that he had never seen her or anyone else for that matter look so beautiful as she did at that moment.

"I'm not. I'm fine."

"Oh, no, you're not." He laid his big strong hand against her cheek. "You've got a temperature."

She wondered if he knew she was trembling as he touched her. "A pretty swell kimono that!" he burst out in admiration, forgetting for the moment his role of doctor. "And you look swell in it."

"Thanks for the compliment, but the name is negligee," she said teasingly.

Duke put his hand in his pocket and handed her a paper.

"Here," he said. "It's yours—Brookdale. I sent north for it, when I saw the end in sight. It came last night just before train time."

Carol could not trust herself to speak. She tossed it, as if it were something of no importance whatever, beside the other papers on the table.

"Now we're quits," he said. She nodded.

"And now its good-bye forever to the tracks for you!" he went on. "I'm glad, Carol, for you. You've been plucky as well as clever. But do you know I'm gladdest because of your cheer. I hope he knows—perhaps he does—that now you're all through with being a dressed-up gypsy. Remember that's what he always called the race-track outfit!"

She could not speak yet. She was afraid she was going to be bested by the tears she was struggling so valiantly to keep back.

Duke was speaking again, but in a different tone.

"And now, beautiful, I came here to play doctor. First thing, you take off that chiffon business and put on a good thick robe. What are you doing—looking for a sure route to the pneumonia ward?"

"I haven't anything but this," lied Carol, between coughs.

"You must have," insisted Duke. "Rosetta would see to that. I'll see." He pulled open the closet door and began rummaging among the dresses. "I'll call Rosetta—she must have something," he said.

"Oh, all right then," Carol said. She reached under the bed covers and pulled out the flannel robe. "Here is the fright which Rosetta bought in Louisville."

"Holding out on me, are you? You're one swell patient. Scramble right back into it. Then as she hesitated, he added: "What's holding you back? I know you're pretty."

She seemed to be strangling in another coughing fit, but she shook her head with determination. Duke took matters, and also the robe, into his own hands.

"No more nonsense," he said sternly, shoving her arms through the sleeves. "Now, got any goose grease or anything like that?"

"I'm all right," she protested.

"You will be when I'm through with you," he said grimly. "What's this smart piece of luggage—a medicine case? Did Madison slip you this?"

"Yes, but I've never opened it. I don't take medicine. I hate it."

Duke opened the case. Some look-alike among the gold-stoppered bottles until he found what he wanted.

STORY OF THE CIRCUS. IV—Acrobats and Animal Trainers.

How many somersaults can a man make after leaping from a springboard over the backs of a row of animals?

That question was asked many times by circus folk during the past century. At first the answer was "One!" Then it was "Two!" At last there came a time when some said, "Maybe three!"

out harm to himself on the back of an elephant!

In these days, there are not so many animals in the circus menageries as was the custom 10 or 15 years ago. This is partly because public zoos have made wild animals seem less like circus animals. Giraffes, however, and giraffes are not to be found at most zoos.

Wild animal trainers put themselves in danger when they handle lions, leopards and tigers. These beasts may obey for a long while, but when the man or woman in charge of them makes a mistake, it is likely to mean an early grave.

Perhaps the most skillful lion tamer in circus history was George Conklin. He used to appear in a large cage containing several lions and one or two boys. With a lion called Pompey, he carried on a tug-of-war. Holding a long piece of meat, he let the lion seize one end. Then Conklin put the other end of the meat in his own mouth, and man and beast pulled against each other.

Conklin also taught a lion to waltz to the music of the "Blue Danube," played by the circus band. While a waltz was going on one day, the man stepped on the tail or paw of another lion, and was bit by the thigh. Twisting around, he struck the animal over the head with the butt of his whip, and made it let go.

The wound sent Conklin to the hospital and it did not heal for several weeks. Another man took his place in the cage, but was bitten in the leg by Pompey and died from blood poisoning. Years afterward, Pompey escaped from his cage during a fire at Bridgeport, Conn., and was killed in a street by bullets from a policeman's revolver.

Yates Wins Medalist Honors With 146 as Eley Collapses

ABOARD U. S. S. DICKERSON WITH GEORGIA TECH NAVAL UNIT, June 16.—No team Georgia Tech sends out is any more interesting than this one of 94 men which sails out from this port to compete with teams from Yale, Harvard and Northwestern.

There are no Pullmans for this team. There are no white-coated porters to make the berths and shine the shoes. But instead, there are two of their country's trim, gray destroyers.

Long and narrow and clean, they are here at the dock in Savannah, the Dickerson and the Decatur, side by side.

They look, even while docked, like action. And they are. The sailor in battleships has soda fountains and great decks and much room. He doesn't know what it means to go to sea.

Only in destroyers and submarines do they go to sea. And the destroyers are the prettiest of the lot. They are fighting machines. There is but a quarter inch of steel between them and the sea. They are all engine and guns and torpedo tubes and speed.

They go where the big ships cannot go and they go at a speed the battle wagons can never know. Read the story of Jutland to know the story of destroyers. The English destroyers know what it was.

And do not talk to the navy men. There are some who say this and that of that battle. But when it was done, England ruled the seas. And somehow that has been answer enough to the enigma of Jutland. Some day, read the story of the destroyers there.

They are as beautiful when they put to sea as a thoroughbred horse running in the stretch. And when the big green seas break over the bow and shatter against the bridge—they are not comfortable to ride—but they are action. And beauty.

THE N. R. O. T. C.

You may say this about government expense—This they spend on the N. R. O. T. C. is not wasted. It is spent wisely and well.

The Georgia Tech students in the naval unit came aboard late this afternoon.

They lined up on the docks and then came aboard, each man saluting the colors as he reached the ship.

They will learn navigation; they will get up at night to "shoot the stars"; they will be in the engine rooms; they will learn to handle the wheel; they will become familiar with maneuvers; they will scrub paint work and shine bright work; they will shoot the sun and work problems; they will learn gunnery; they will learn ship drills and abandon ship.

And one day they will have a shooting contest with the teams from Yale and Harvard and Northwestern.

That's the day—when they take down all the electric light bulbs and mirrors.

And the crews—that have worked for days and days—stand ready.

And the voice from the control room says:

"Coming on the range."
And the gun crews echo—"Coming on the range."
The whole ship tenses—and then the buzzers sound and the guns boom and the four-inch shells may be seen to leave the guns and disappear into the air on their way to the bobbing target towed far behind another ship.

They will do all this and see foreign ports and peoples and come back home with a knowledge that will be of great value to this country.

This is no pleasure trip—it is a voyage of education and pleasure.

And, somehow, when the sun glints on the sea and the green curls up at the bow—or when at night the phosphorescent fire gleams on the water and the mystery of the night comes in—well, this is one of the better Tech "teams" and somehow this second voyage seems better than the one before—even before it begins.

THE SHOOTING MATCH.

I like that shooting match.
The American boy is all right. And to see them stripped to the waist there at the guns—the one with his asbestos gloves to catch the red-hot empty shell—the other with one at the

GRANT THRILLS LONDON CROWD, WHIPPING MAKO

Budge and Sabin Also Advance in Queens
Club Tourney.

LONDON, June 16.—(AP)—America placed four men in the quarter-finals of the Queens Club tennis tournament today and furnished an almost certain finalist in red-headed Don Budge.

The Californian, who had won his match yesterday in 18 minutes, cut four minutes off that time schedule today as he trounced R. O. Williams, of Great Britain, with the loss of only one game, 6-0, 6-1.

Budge is favored to meet Great Britain's Davis cup ace, Henry Wilfred (Bunny) Austin in the finals. Austin, making his first appearance in the tournament, disposed of A. W. R. Caws 6-1, 6-1, and R. A. Shays, 6-2, 6-0, to enter the round of eight.

Tomorrow the British star will play Hal Surface, of Kansas City, who advanced at the expense of his fellow American, Charles Harris, of West Palm Beach, Fla., 6-2, 3-6, 6-1.

Completing the American survivors were Bryan M. Grant, tiny Atlanta, and Wayne Sabin, of Hollywood, Fla., both members of the American Davis cup team.

Grant, giving the gallery a series of thrills with his spectacular recoveries, romped to a 6-3, 6-2 triumph over Gene Mako, his fellow Davis cup teammate, while Sabin overcame stubborn opposition from R. J. Ritchie, of England, to win, 6-3, 9-7.

Surface and Harris teamed up to score a second round doubles victory over Frank Parker, of Milwaukee, and Larry Hall, of San Jose, Cal., 6-2, 6-2.

America lost both her representatives in women's singles as Katherine Winthrop, of Boston, bowed to Joan Saunders, 6-4, 3-6, 6-2, and Dorothy Andrus, of Stamford, Conn., and New York, to Kay Stammers, 6-1, 6-3.

Mrs. Andrus and Mme. Sylvia Henrotin, of France, eliminated Miss D. M. Royall and Joan Physick, 6-1, 6-0, in women's doubles.

Budge, Jacobs Seeded First.

WIMBLEDON, England, June 16.—(AP)—Don Budge and Helen Jacobs were seeded first today for the men's and women's singles of the all-English tennis championships starting Monday.

The red-headed Budge, top-ranking American player, was given the preference over Baron Gottfried von Cramm, German ace, who was seeded No. 2. Back of the two leaders in the listings were Heinrich Henkel, Germany; E. W. (Bunny) Austin, England; Bryan M. Grant, Atlanta; Roderich Menzel, Czechoslovakia; Vivian McGrath, Australia, and Frankie Parker, of Milwaukee.

Grant drew a first round bye.

RUCKER SIGNED.

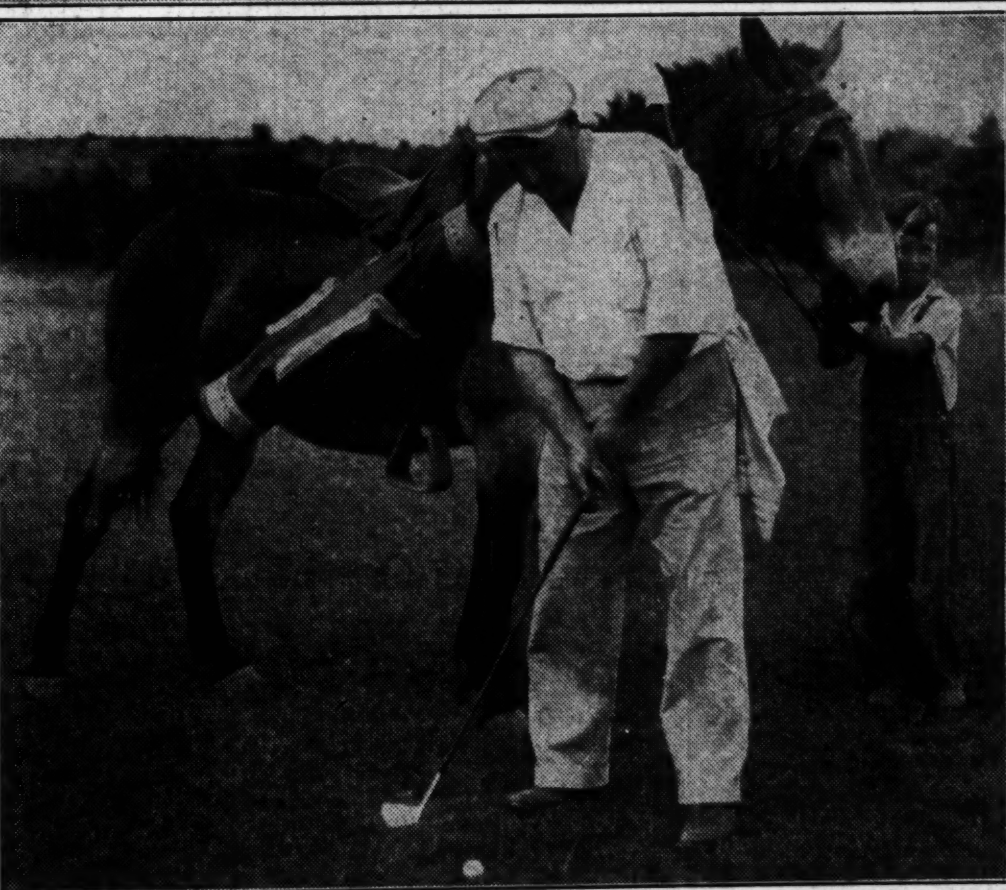

LAGRANGE, Ga., June 16.—(AP)—Director George S. Johnson announced the addition of John Rucker, captain-elect of the University of Georgia Bulldogs, to the Callaway Cubs. He is a utility man, playing in the infield and outfield.

IMPORTANT—BE THERE

Cedartown golfers contributed an unusual episode in the annals of golf yesterday when play yot under way in the annual Cherokee tournament. E. D. Hightower, with the aid of his mule "Beck" almost won a first round match, losing out at the 19th hole. Earl Coleman, caddy, is shown holding "Beck" while Hightower attends to the match play. Three down at the 15th, the tired Hightower summoned his mule, and proceeded to win the next three holes, riding along between shots. Hightower qualified with a 74 with the aid of "Beck." In the photo at the top left, Red Roberts, the medalist, is shown getting off a long drive; watching are H. C. Chafee, Augusta; Charles Brumby and Tom Brumby, reading from left to right. In the photo at the right, Young Roy Emmet Jr., 14, is getting pointers from Bob Wood, present president of the club, and Dr. C. V. Wood, its first president. Emmet won his match, 2 and 1.

GOLFER ON MULE BEATEN AT 19TH

'Beck' Helps E. D. Hightower Square Match on 18th Green.

By JACK TROY.

CEDARTOWN, June 16.—For the first time in the long and honorable history of the royal and ancient game, so far as is known, a golfer today employed a mule to carry him around a course in tournament play. E. D. Hightower, middle-aged golfer of Cedartown, saddled his mule, "Beck," and rode him around the Cherokee course in the qualifying rounds. He scored a 74, two over par, and qualified for the championship flight.

During the course of his opening-round match, Hightower broke the saddle girth and was forced to abandon his mule. He tied it up and went on afoot.

His game started going bad and he went three down in his match with Ed Graves. Tom Brumby, of Cedartown, playing in the foursome, suggested that he get his mule.

WINS THREE STRAIGHT.
And, believe me, because it's true, he did and won the next three holes to square the match on the 18th. He was three down and three to go when he sent for his mule.

Starting out on the extra hole, young Ed Graves said to the gallery at the first tee: "I can beat Mr. Ed all right, but I can't beat him and THAT both."

Hightower sent his mule ahead as he teed off an extra hole. It was a bad move. He should have kept him there, because Mr. E. D. topped one into the ditch which runs across in front of the first hole and he almost had to send

Roberts Wins Medal And First Match, 3-2

Dalton Golfer Low With Par 72, Fires 73 at Tom Brumby in First Round.

By JACK TROY.

CEDARTOWN, Ga., June 16.—Red Roberts, of Dalton, a golfing gent who hits a ball that travels about 100 yards on a line and then takes wings and flies, apparently has put the "Indian sign" on the field in the 12th annual Cherokee Club invitation golf tournament.

First thing off the bat, Roberts shot a par 72 at the field to become low medalist on this most picturesque course whose total yardage is 5,965.

And then, in the opening round today, Roberts went right back out and shot a 73, one over, to defeat Tom Brumby, local boy, 3 and 2.

TOO MUCH ON BALL.
Roberts, a long knocker who puts his shots together well, had too much on the ball today for Tom Brumby, who had been shooting unusually fine golf in preparation for the meet.

Charles Brumby Sr. had every reason to be proud today. He had two sons in the championship flight, and one of them, Charles Jr., is still in it.

The junior Brumby, who defeated H. C. Chafee, of Augusta, 2 and 1, meets Roberts, the Dalton dynamiter, tomorrow.

Charles Brumby Jr., who lives in Florence, Ala., hasn't been playing much golf this year, but he's shooting the sort of game that will make trouble for almost anybody, and so Brumby, the elder, will have much to look forward to on the morrow. It should be a sensational semi-finals match.

Oscar Cone, of Rome, who defeated E. C. Clark, of Cartersville, 4 and 3, plays Ed Graves, of Cedartown, who today defeated E. D. Hightower, the "muleman," 1 up on 19 holes.

Charlie Establishes Himself as Player To Beat in Southern.

CHARLOTTE, N. C., June 16.—(AP)—Charlie Yates, of Atlanta, playing in his first Southern amateur championship since 1932, won medalist honors today with a 36-hole qualifying score of 146, two strokes over par.

The youthful Atlantan upheld advance predictions by coming through in the strenuous qualifying test for the 32 places allotted to the championship flight, outdistancing the field by a stroke.

In two previous attempts at the southern crown, Yates was beaten in the semi-finals in 1931 and 1932.

Yates, former western amateur champion and once holder of the national intercollegiate crown, put together rounds of 73-73 for his total. He was one over par on each round and his two-day exhibition of stroking established him as the player to beat for the crown vacated by Jack Munger, of Dallas, Texas.

THREE SECOND.

Erwin Laxton, of Charlotte; Carl Dann, of Orlando, Fla., and Lewis Johnson Jr., of Charleston, S. C., trailed the Georgian by a single stroke with 147's. Dann turned in the only sub-par card of the final qualifying round when he traversed the layout in 71. Johnson equalled the regulation 72 figures.

Laxton, a former University of North Carolina player, added a 74, two over par, to his first round 73 and assumed a two-stroke advantage in the battle for medalist honors with about half of the scores posted.

Three players were grouped two strokes back of the North Carolinian. They were Vincent D'Antoni, of New Orleans, Tulane University golfer; Bayard Storm, of Charlotte, and Freddie Haas, of New Orleans, a former southern champion.

HAAS SLUMPS.
Haas, in second place at the start today with a 73, slipped to a 76 as his approaching and putting went wild. He was hitting his shots well from the tees, missing only one fairway, but his short game collapsed.

The biggest surprise in the final round of the qualifying for 32 places in the championship bracket was the collapse of Cliff Eley, of Atlanta, first day leader with a brilliant 67. The Georgian's game went to pieces and he took a bad 85, thirteen over par and exactly a stroke a hole worse than his initial round. Close up with the leaders was Crawford Rainwater, of Atlanta, who put together two consistent rounds of 75, for a total of 150.

Al Dowtin, of Wake Forest, the Carolinas champion who was well in the running after yesterday's

Gomez Beats Indians, 4-1; Giants Rally to Defeat Pirates, 5-4

HARRY KELLEY LOSES BATTLE TO BROWNS, 3-2

Buck Newsom Stops
White Sox, 3-2; Senators Win.

NEW YORK, June 16.—(AP)—George Selkirk's three-run double enabled the Yankees to cash in on Lefty Gomez's airtight pitching today to defeat the Cleveland Indians 4 to 1 for the second time in a row and strengthen their grip on first place in the American league.

Chalking up his seventh win of the year, Gomez bested Denny Galehouse in a flinging duel through the first seven innings, allowed a total of six hits altogether and fanned nine batters. He struck out the first five men to face him and breezed in without difficulty.

Galehouse went out in favor of Lloyd Brown, the eighth, after being taken out for a pinch-hitter, but was charged with the defeat, his sixth against one victory for the year. The Yanks made seven hits off him, and added their eighth, and last, off Brown.

Joe DiMaggio, after hitting safely in 16 consecutive games, finally was stopped, falling victim to Galehouse four times.

Buck Newsom muffed the Chicago White Sox with five hits and fanned eight batters to pitch the Red Sox to a 3-to-2 victory, their second straight over the Chicagoans.

Newsom bested Johnny Whitehead in a flinging duel, handing that pitcher his first defeat of the season after four straight victories. The St. Louis Browns came from behind to make it two straight over the Athletics, 3 to 2, and advance to within one game of the seventh place A's.

Harry Kelley, trying for his eighth victory of the season, weakened in the eighth and walked West and Vosmik with two out. Roy Bell then singled through scoring West with the winning run.

The defeat was the Athletics' 19th in their last 22 games.

Jake Wade, young Detroit hurler, threw away a 12-inning pitching duel with Wes Ferrell of Washington, with a wild pitch while the bases were loaded.

Up until the 12th, Wade had the edge over the veteran Ferrell. Then singles by Rick Ferrell, Lewis and Kuhel filled the bags and Wade threw a low, fast ball that struck home plate and bounced over the catcher's head as Ferrell rushed in with the winning run.

It will be the last competitive play for Atlanta's golfers before the annual city tournament opens Monday morning on the Druid Hills course.

Every woman golfer in the city is invited to participate in today's tourney.

CARDINALS WIN FROM PHILLIES ON ERROR, 7 TO 6

Terrymen Gain Virtual
Tie for Lead With Idle Cubs.

PITTSBURGH, June 16.—(AP)—The New York Giants climbed back into a virtual tie for first place in the National league today by coming from behind with a three-run rally in the eighth inning to defeat the Pirates, 5 to 4.

Although getting only eight hits to the Bucs' 15, the Giants finally reached Cy Blanton to finish on top. Mel Ott's single drove in two of the runs and a base hit by Gus Mancuso produced the other in the winning rally.

The victory left the Giants only five percentage points back of the leading Chicago Cubs, who were idle today.

The Pirates scored two runs in the fifth off lefty Al Smith, Giant starter, but were unable to solve the delivery of Hal Schumacher, who took over the pitching assignment in the seventh and received credit for the victory.

Relief Pitcher Wayne Lamaster's error on Pepper Martin's grounder and Jimmy Brown's single in the ninth inning gave the St. Louis Cardinals a 7-6 victory over Philadelphia. Chuck Klein and Morris Aronovich hit home runs for the Phillies.

BRADDOCK, LOUIS CAN'T WIN FIGHT VIA FOUL ROUTE

Protective Cups Regarded as Sufficient Protection Against Low Blows.

CHICAGO, June 16.—(AP)—Champion James J. Braddock's title fight Tuesday night with Joe Louis can go any way but, the Illinois state athletic commission ruled today, it cannot end in a foul.

This provision was among the rules promulgated today at a conference attended by commission members and the fighters' managers, Joe Gould for the champion and John Roxborough and Julian Black for the Brown Bomber.

Illinois rules require fighters to wear protective cups regarded as sufficient protection.

The conference also clarified the rules on knockdown counts, with memories lingering of the 14-count in the Jack Dempsey-Gene Tunney fight at Soldier Field here 10 years ago.

The boxer scoring a knockdown must retire to the farthest neutral corner before the count can start. If he retires to another corner the referee will be instructed to begin the count at the same time waving the fighter to the farthest neutral corner.

The conference agreed the bout would be staged the following night if rain prevented Tuesday's scrap.

ELECTION LITIGATION DISMISSAL IS ASKED BY STATE ATTORNEY

Vote Held, Issue Is 'Moot', Official Tells Supreme Court.

The state moved officially yesterday to have a suit contesting validity of the June 8 election dismissed from the Georgia supreme court.

Attorney General M. J. Yeomans announced filing of such a motion in the contest, appealed from Franklin county superior court, which denied an injunction to halt the election.

The case is scheduled for argument before the high court next Tuesday.

Issues "Moot."
Signed by Assistant Attorney General Marshall L. Allison, the motion contends issues in the case became "moot" with the holding of the election.

The motion contends "the substantial relief sought by" the group of taxpayers asking the injunction was to stop county officials "from appointing managers and clerks, and contracting for the printing, or having printed, ballots, and contracting for any other expense incident to the general election held in Georgia on June 8."

The holding of the election and the paying of the expense resulted in "the questions raised upon the substantial relief sought" becoming moot, Allison continued.

A similar injunction appeal from Coffee county is pending before the supreme court, but has not been set for hearing.

Would Ban Ruling.
Should the dismissing motion be granted, the supreme court would not make a ruling on the election's validity, contested on the grounds it was not a proper "general" election for submission of constitutional amendments.

Twenty-six amendments were ratified at the election. A ruling by the court against the election's validity would void the ratification.

OF Swimming Hole Ain't What She Was

The call of the ole swimmin' hole has taken some Fulton county boys back to nature. Hot weather had something to do with it, too, no doubt.

For the past two days about noon, county police have received the same call. "Please send officers to investigate boys swimming nude in the creek near the bridge on Macon drive."

Officers, remembering boyhood days, have cautioned the youths to put on trunks.

Are Common People Capable Of Governing Themselves?

For many years sociologists and students of government have pondered the question: are the American masses capable of intelligent self-government?

During the past 19 months the American Institute of Public Opinion has conducted over 60 polls of public opinion on vital national issues. What do the results indicate about the intelligence of the mass mind?

Next Sunday in The Constitution the Institute will report a summary of the vote in all its major polls to date so that readers may judge for themselves the wisdom of the common people. This report will be found in next Sunday's
